Cycle Tracks: Concept and Design Practices

Come early and listen as APBP examines the design concepts and guidelines for implementing Cycle Tracks beginning with general design principles and practices, drawing from European experience. Examples from Cambridge, Mass., Montreal, New York City, and Portland, Ore., will be cited throughout.

Specifically, this webinar will cover:

- Definition of a cycle track
- Examples of means of separation from traffic and from pedestrians
- Space needs for one-way and two-way cycle tracks
- Intersection treatments
- Discussion of "false sense of security" studies
- What AASHTO says about cycle tracks, and other sources of design guidance
- North American cities' experience with design, operations and safety
