Dallas-Fort Worth High-Speed Transportation Connections Study Summary of August/September 2023 Open Houses

Arlington: Tuesday, August 29, 5:00–7:30 p.m. (CDT)

Fort Worth: Thursday, August 31, 4:30–7:00 p.m. (CDT)

Grand Prairie: Wednesday, September 6, 5:00–7:30 p.m. (CDT)

Dallas: Thursday, September 7, 4:00–7:00 p.m. (CDT)

As part of ongoing public outreach initiatives for the Dallas-Fort Worth High-Speed Transportation Connections Study, the North Central Texas Council of Governments (NCTCOG) held four in-person open houses in key cities along the proposed corridor in proximity to communities with the most potential to be affected. The purpose of the open houses was to bring communities up to date on the study, whether attendees had participated in Phase 1 or were learning about the study for the first time. The study team hoped to raise public interest, provide a summary of the Phase 1 process and results, and continue to bring awareness to the project as Phase 2 proceeds. The open houses were hosted by NCTCOG at the NCTCOG headquarters in Arlington, Fort Worth Central Station, the Tony Shotwell Life Center in Grand Prairie, and the West Dallas Multipurpose Center, Each open house featured identical content, consisting of over 30 exhibit boards, study handouts, and a recorded presentation. Attendees learned about the progress and recommendations made in Phase 1, details regarding high-speed rail technology and the proposed alignment, and upcoming environmental and engineering documentation. Attendees could speak with project staff and provide comments on the study. All project materials were available in English and Spanish, and each open house had multiple Spanish translators. Other requested accessibility needs were accommodated. Figure 1 illustrates the Arlington open house. Additional photos are available in Appendix A.

NCTCOG published a notice of the open houses in Dallas Morning News, Al Día, Star Local Media, Dallas Weekly, La Vida News: The Black Voice, and Trẻ Dallas. The print advertisement was translated into Spanish in Al Día and Vietnamese in Trẻ Dallas for targeted outreach to these communities with a high population of Vietnamese and Spanish speakers along the corridor. A news release describing the meetings and study, included in Appendix B, was distributed by NCTCOG on August 23, 2023, to 316 local media outlets. The series of open houses was covered by CBS, Community Impact network outlets, Denton Record-Chronicle, Fort Worth Star-Telegram, KERA, and NBC, among others. Documentation of the print advertisement and print news coverage is located in Appendix B.

Flyer meeting notices in English and Spanish were emailed to 4,498 community members and stakeholders on August 16, 2023. Postcard meeting notices were mailed to 1,525 community members and stakeholders on August 16, 2023.

Graphics raising awareness of the open houses were posted on the NCTCOG Transportation Department social media channels throughout August and September 2023. The first social media graphic posted for the open house series by NCTCOG is shown in Figure 2. Other graphics, accompanying text, and analytics regarding the open houses are included in Appendix B.

Documentation of August/September 2023 Open Houses

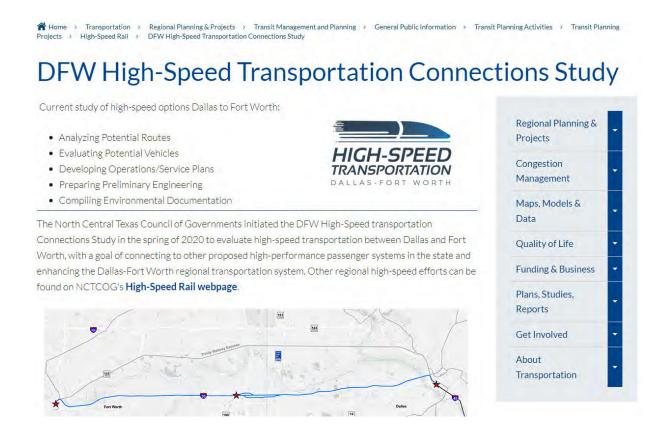

Further outreach about the project and mentions of the open houses occurred through a quarterly project newsletter, DFW High-Speed Update, launched February 2021. The newsletter is distributed by email to everyone on the project contact list, which includes 6,552 community members and stakeholders. The newsletter focuses on the latest updates on project progress and upcoming events for the public to attend. The latest quarterly newsletter from Summer 2023 is included in Appendix B. The project team also raised awareness of the open houses through targeted outreach by email to community groups along the alignment and provided information about the upcoming open houses to share with their members.

In addition to information about the open houses, materials such as exhibits, handouts, and presentations in English and Spanish were posted on the study website on August 31, 2023, after the first open house in Arlington. Printed handouts available at the open houses included a summary of the alignment/mode evaluations from Levels 1–3 in English and Spanish, the newsletter in English and Spanish, and the exhibit boards translated into Spanish. Videos of the presentation were played continuously at the meetings in both English and Spanish and were closed captioned for those with hearing disabilities. Each of these materials are included in Appendix C. Additionally, documents with general information regarding the study, facts on high-speed transportation technology, evaluation criteria used to assess alternatives, and frequently asked questions were posted on the study website (www.nctcog.org/dfw-hstcs) to provide additional opportunities for individuals who could not attend the open houses in person to learn more about the project and leave comments. A screenshot of the study website where the study information was posted is shown in Figure 3.

At each open house, attendees were asked upon arrival to place a dot sticker on a Knowledge Meter board to represent how much they knew about the DFW High-Speed Transportation Connections Study. After placing the dot sticker on the Knowledge Meter, attendees proceeded to view the meeting material and watch the presentations. Before leaving the open house, attendees were asked to place a second dot sticker on a separate Knowledge Meter board to gauge how much they had learned after viewing the materials and speaking with project staff. Completed Knowledge Meter exhibit boards from each of the four open houses are depicted in Figures 4–11.

NCTCOG offered reasonable accommodations, including translation services, in all open house notifications. NCTCOG provided Communication Access Realtime Translation (CART) accommodations for a hearing-impaired attendee at the Grand Prairie open house.

A total of 209 people attended the four open houses. Specifically, 53 people attended in Arlington at NCTCOG Headquarters, 70 people attended in Fort Worth at Fort Worth Central Station, 30 people attended in Grand Prairie at the Tony Shotwell Life Center, and 56 people attended in Dallas at the West Dallas Multipurpose Center. A total of 11 elected officials attended the open houses.

Comments for the open house series were collected through a general online comment form and handwritten comments from the open house meetings. A screenshot of the online comment form is shown in Figure 12.

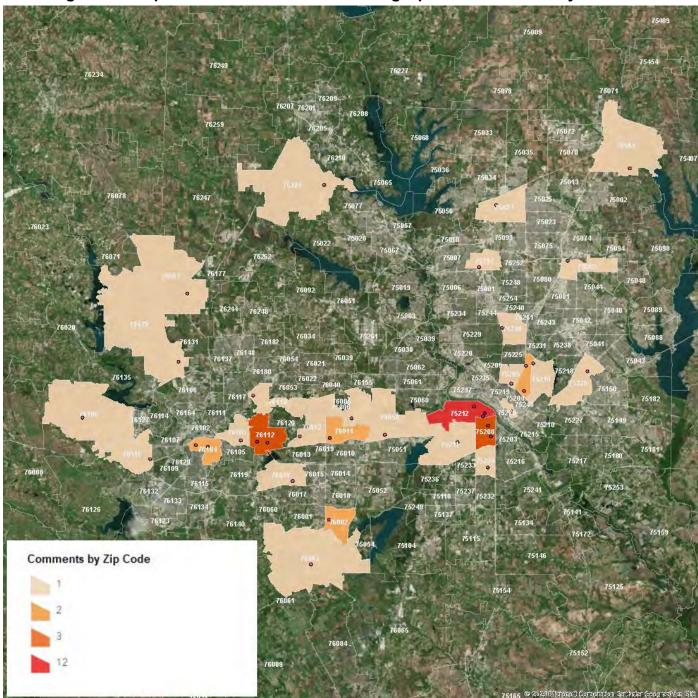

Documentation of August/September 2023 Open Houses

A total of 51 comments were received either in person at the open houses or digitally through the Public Involvement Management Application (PIMA) during the open house series. All comments and responses are organized in a comment/response table in Appendix D. A map of comments from the open houses by ZIP code is shown in Figure 13. Table 1 summarizes when and how comments were received, organized by topic. Commenters could categorize their comments into multiple topics, so the total number of comments across all topics (105) is greater than the total number of comments received (51).

NCTCOG Hosting 4 High-Speed Transportation Open House Opportunities Beginning Aug. 29

Planners will address components of Phase 2

Aug. 23, 2023 (Arlington, TEXAS) -- Plans to link Fort Worth, Arlington and Dallas with high-speed rail are moving ahead, and the North Central Texas Council of Governments wants to hear what potential users of the system think. The formal National Environmental Policy Act (NEPA) review process of the Dallas-Fort Worth High-Speed Transportation Connections Study will kick off in September, and NCTCOG is hosting four open house events to allow the public a chance to learn more about the project.

The first open house is scheduled for 5 p.m. Tuesday, Aug. 29 at NCTCOG's Arlington offices. Subsequent open houses will be hosted at 4 p.m. Thursday, Aug. 31 at the Fort Worth Central Station Community Room; 5 p.m. Wednesday, Sept. 6 at the Tony Shotwell Life Center in Grand Prairie; and 4 p.m. Thursday, Sept. 7 at the West Dallas Multipurpose Center.

The open houses will encourage an open dialogue, similar to meetings held during the first phase of the study in 2021. A short video will discuss the project and presentation boards throughout each venue will explain different high-speed technologies and illustrate the recommended route.

During Phase 1 of the project, planners evaluated high-speed transportation alternatives, including alignments and various high-speed technologies, that could enhance travel between Dallas, Arlington and Fort Worth. Now, the proposed high-speed transportation project between Dallas and Fort Worth is in Phase 2, focusing on a single corridor and identified station locations, with the goal of evaluating potential social and environmental impacts along the corridor.

Planners and engineers have identified the preferred route to be generally located along Interstate Highway 30 between downtown Dallas and downtown Fort Worth, with a stop in the Arlington Entertainment District. Currently, they are advancing preliminary engineering design of this alignment to support the social and environmental analysis of high-speed rail.

The high-speed rail line being studied in North Texas would provide connections with local transportation systems and link directly to future high-speed services such as the planned Dallas-to-Houston high-speed rail line.

The 12-county metropolitan area currently has a population of 8 million and is expected to add an additional 3 million-plus people by 2045. The projected 2045 population of over 11 million would be approximately 50% larger than in 2018. Implementation of high-speed rail technology will help alleviate the increase in highway congestion that is expected to occur because of the population growth.

ARLINGTON (CBSNewsTexas.com) – Getting from Dallas to Fort Worth in a matter of minutes could soon be a reality.

The North Central Texas Council of Governments is hosting a series of open houses for North Texans to discuss and learn about the potential high speed rail system linking Fort Worth, Dallas and Arlington.

NCTCOG says a potential route has been identified along Highway 30 between downtown Dallas and downtown Fort Worth. There would be a stop added in the Arlington Entertainment District.

The first of four meetings takes place tonight at NCTCOG's office in Arlington, 616 Six Flags Drive, at 5 p.m.

Can't make it tonight? Other open houses are as follows:

- 4 p.m. Thursday, Aug. 31 at the Fort Worth Central Station Community Room
- 5 p.m. Wednesday, Sept. 6 at the Tony Shotwell Life Center in Grand Prairie
- 4 p.m. Thursday, Sept. 7 at the West Dallas Multipurpose Center

High-speed rail connecting Dallas, Fort Worth to take next steps

A series of open houses is scheduled starting Aug. 29 that will offer more information about a proposed high-speed rail linking Arlington, Dallas and Fort Worth.

What you need to know

The North Central Texas Council of Governments is hosting four open house events across Arlington, Dallas, Fort Worth and Grand Prairie, according to a news release. Each open house will feature a short video discussing the project as well as information boards explaining different high-speed technologies and the recommended route.

The Dallas-Fort Worth High-Speed Transportation Connections Study is slated to kick off the National Environmental Policy Act review process in September, according to the release. The open houses allow potential users to learn more about the project.

The details

Planners evaluated high-speed transportation alternatives, alignments and high-speed technologies during the project's first phase. With the project now in Phase 2, planners will focus on a single corridor with identified station locations while aiming to evaluate "potential social and environmental impacts along the corridor," according to the news release.

The preferred route for the rail will be located along I-30 between downtown Dallas and downtown Fort Worth with a train station located in Arlington's entertainment district. Planners and engineers are advancing preliminary engineering design for this alignment.

A high-speed rail line in North Texas could provide connections with local transportation systems and directly link to other high-speed rail services, such as the proposed high-speed rail from Dallas to Houston.

The backstory

The council of governments initiated a study for a high-speed rail running through the metroplex in 2020, according to the project website. Since then, council staff have hosted several public meetings presenting information about the project.

A separate study looking at high-speed transportation between Fort Worth and Laredo was completed in early 2020, according to the project website. The study looked at high-speed transportation options connecting Austin, Fort Worth, Killeen, Laredo, San Antonio, Temple and Waco.

More information about high-speed transportation initiatives can be found on the council of governments' website.

Partnerships Key to Moving High-Speed Rail Toward Completion

NCTCOG study examines opportunities to bring high-speed service to region, connect riders to Houston

Aug. 15, 2023 (Arlington, TEXAS) – Imagine boarding a train in Tarrant County and being transported to Houston in less than two hours, bypassing the traffic along the region's major highways and the potential backups that may occur.

This vision is closer to reality thanks to separate high-speed rail projects that could ultimately connect to form a system tha allow people to travel from Fort Worth or Arlington to Houston without changing trains.

Last week, Amtrak and Texas Central Partners announced a plan to work together to study moving forward with the long-planned high-speed rail line to Houston, with a station in the Bryan-College Station area.

The North Central Texas Council of Governments is moving ahead on a plan to bring high-speed rail service to the Interstate Highway 30 corridor, connecting Fort Worth and Arlington to Dallas and the planned high-speed rail line to Houston

NCTCOG studied 43 potential alignments and a series of potential high-speed technologies as part of Phase 1 of the Dallas-Fort Worth High-Speed Transportation Connections Study. High-speed rail along the IH 30 corridor emerged as the preferred method to connect people from throughout the region to the planned Dallas-Houston route. The DFW High-Speed Transportation Connections Study will move into the National Environmental Policy Act (NEPA) portion of Phase 2 in September, focusing on route alignment, possible station locations and potential social and environmental impacts. This environmental process is expected to be completed in a year and will include opportunities for the public to provide input on priorities.

"We applaud the partnership between Amtrak and Texas Central Partners to connect North Texas and Houston with innovative technology," Fort Worth Mayor Mattie Parker said. "Extending high-speed rail along Interstate Highway 30 is key to ensuring Fort Worth residents can continue to travel reliably as the region grows and traffic increases. With the collaboration of our North Texas neighbors, as well as the North Central Texas Council of Governments and our federal and private-sector partners, high-speed rail can be more than just a vision. It can become reality."

Dallas-Fort Worth has a population of more than 8 million people and stands to eclipse 11 million by 2045. This type of growth necessitates an embrace of innovative transportation options to preserve and enhance the region's quality of life. Connecting two of the country's largest metropolitan areas with high-speed trains that move in excess of 200 mph could improve safety and reliability while fostering even greater economic growth.

Arlington Mayor Jim Ross sees high-speed rail as a transformative technology that can help move people through the region and can complement the current transportation network.

"Arlington is excited to partner in the effort to bring high-speed rail to our region," Mayor Ross said. "North Texas remains one of the fastest-growing metropolitan areas in the country with no sign of slowing down. This requires continued creativity, including examining new ways to move people. Adding high-speed rail as an option for people to get to Arlington, whether they live or work here, or are visiting our world-class Entertainment District, would be revolutionary."

Fort Worth-Dallas high-speed rail could move ahead rapidly fortworthreport.org/2023/08/18/fort-worth-dallas-high-speed-rail-could-move-ahead-rapidly

August 18, 2023

A high-speed rail line from Fort Worth to Dallas is moving "full steam ahead" and could be ready even before the proposed Dallas-Houston line that received a recent boost with the news that Amtrak is coming on board, officials said.

First proposed in 2017, the Fort Worth-Dallas high-speed rail project would run parallel to Interstate 30 and is spearheaded by the North Central Texas Council of Governments. That project will formally enter its environmental phase in September and is expected to be cleared by the federal government by 2024.

The proposed high-speed rail connection between Dallas and Fort Worth will cater to the metroplex's population of over 8 million, which is expected to reach 11 million by 2045.

What we know so far about the Fort-Worth-Dallas high-speed rail connection:

- The 31-mile line will allow travel between Fort Worth and Dallas in about 20
- Stops on the line include downtown Fort Worth, Arlington's entertainment district and downtown Dallas.

"We've been going full steam ahead since 2020," said Brendon Wheeler, program manager for transportation planning at the Council of Governments. "This recent news from Amtrak on the Dallas-Houston line is coming at a perfect time."

Wheeler said the environmental approval in 2024 would help the metroplex project catch up to the Dallas to Houston project.

Amtrak announced it was looking to partner with Texas Central on Aug. 9 to further study and advance a 240-mile, 205 mph route project between Dallas and Houston. Before this announcement, the project had suffered from a decade of delays.

A key to making the Fort Worth-Dallas high-speed project successful is ensuring it is part of a larger, statewide system — similar to the interstate highway system, Wheeler said.

The Council of Governments is also exploring other rail corridors, most notably along Interstate 35, connecting Fort Worth through San Antonio and all the way down to Laredo.

At this time, no funding or investments have been committed to the Fort Worth-Dallas rail line, but getting the project environmentally cleared will help change that, Wheeler said. By clearing these hurdles upfront, potential partners will be more likely to invest.

"We've heard from several entities that operate high-speed rail around the world, private entities that are interested in funding projects — the major risks that they face coming to the U.S. to try and replicate their success here is they don't know the federal environmental process like we do, and facing those risks costs money to them," Wheeler said.

Funding for the Fort Worth-Dallas high-speed rail line will either be fully privately funded or be a public-private partnership.

Want to share your thoughts on the Fort-Worth-Dallas high-speed rail project? Attend the following public meeting sessions:

- 5-7:30 p.m. Thursday, Aug. 29, at the North Central Texas Council of Governments' Pitstick Room (616 Six Flag Drive Arlington, TX).
- 4-7 p.m. Thursday, Aug. 31, at the Fort Worth Central Station's Community Room (1001 Jones St. Fort Worth, TX)
- 5-7:30 p.m. Wednesday, Sept. 6, at the Tony Shotwell Life Center (2750 Graham St., Grand Prairie, TX)
- 4-7 p.m. Thursday, Sept. 7, at the West Dallas Multipurpose Center (2828 Fishtrap Road, Dallas, TX)

Once the project is environmentally cleared, the Council of Governments plans to reopen conversations with investors about getting dollars set aside for the corridor, especially now that the Dallas-Houston project is rolling again. Travel between Dallas and Houston would take less than 90 minutes.

"It's less of a question of if and more of when for something like that to occur, especially as fast as the state of Texas is growing, as fast as the metros for DFW and Houston are growing. Something's going to happen," Wheeler said.

One benefit the Fort Worth-Dallas project has compared to the Dallas-Houston project is the publicly owned right-of-way for the rail line. Since the Fort Worth-Dallas corridor will be parallel to I-30, there will be a limited need to acquire private land. In the case of the Dallas-Houston corridor, the need to purchase land to lay tracks slowed down the project by at least 10 years.

Renewed discussion for high-speed rail in Texas comes at a time when unprecedented investment in the nation's rail infrastructure is available for grabs.

Allan Rutter, head of the Texas A&M Transportation Institute's freight and investment analysis division, said Amtrak has many reasons to be interested in rail transportation in Texas, especially as more federal dollars are being invested in that transit option.

That includes at least $66 million from the 2021 Bipartisan Infrastructure Law for rail.

"It makes sense for them to continue a relationship with Texas Central, and it makes sense for Texas to request discretionary grant funding under some of the $66 billion worth of intercity passenger rail money that was in the 2021 infrastructure bill," Rutter said.

Jason Abrams, senior public relations manager for Amtrak, said in an email that the company supports the state's federal grant applications for high-speed rail along the Texas Triangle, connecting Dallas, Fort Worth, Houston and San Antonio.

Investing in high-speed rail will help the region prosper, said Rick Harnish, executive director of the High-Speed Rail Alliance. He commended the Council of Governments for its advanced work in getting the necessary clearance for an extension of a high-speed rail line connecting Fort Worth to the Dallas-Houston line.

"If the state was interested in carrying people by train, (the Dallas-Houston line and Dallas-Fort Worth line) would be one project," Harnish said. "It really is a critical piece of making Texas work together better, and it makes the Dallas to Houston project much better, much more valuable."

Fort Worth Mayor Mattie Parker applauded the partnership between Amtrak and Texas Central and encouraged high-speed rail along I-30.

"With the collaboration of our North Texas neighbors, as well as the North Central Texas Council of Governments and our federal and private-sector partners, high-speed rail can be more than just a vision. It can become reality," Parker said in a press release.

Arlington Mayor Jim Ross described the technology as transformative and complementary to the already existing transportation network.

"Adding high-speed rail as an option for people to get to Arlington, whether they live or work here or are visiting our world-class Entertainment District, would be revolutionary," Ross said in a news release.

While the Dallas to Houston and Dallas to Fort Worth lines are still years away, Harnish said, it's now up to the state to come up with a rail plan to connect all the major metropolitan areas in Texas.

The goal is to have the Fort Worth-Dallas and Dallas-Houston lines be "one seat," which means there are no transfers between each stop.

"That's something the state needs to show leadership on," Harnish said. "And the fact that the state has not in any way since doing the initial planning of a high-speed line from Fort Worth to San Antonio, they'd been out of the game. And that's a real bummer for the people who live in Texas."

- Speed Maximum speed of 250 mph

The end goal is to connect the rail to other proposed high-speed transportation projects including Fort Worth to Laredo, Dallas to Houston, and the potential transit hub at Butler Place.

Here's a look at the upcoming public meeting schedule:

- Tuesday, Aug. 29 | 5-7:30 p.m. | NCTCOG, 616 Six Flags Dr., Arlington
- Thursday, Aug. 31 | 4-7 p.m. | Central Station, 1001 Jones St., Fort Worth

Dallas Plans Open Houses to Detail High-Speed Rail Plans

(TNS) — The North Central Texas Council of Governments hosting open houses in August in September on a proposed high-speed rail line linking Dallas and Fort Worth.

The project's study has finished its first phase and is now in its second, focused on examining potential social and environmental effects along the possible route, according to a Wednesday news release from the council.

The open house will include video and presentation boards about proposed technology for the rail and the recommended route. The preferred route is "generally located along Interstate Highway 30 between downtown Dallas and downtown Fort Worth, with a stop in the Arlington Entertainment District," the news release reads.

The director of transportation for the council, Michael Morris, has expressed interest in linking the line to a proposed rail connecting Houston and Dallas.

The long-planned Texas Central project touts a less than 90-minute trip between Houston in Dallas, but opponents have been skeptical it will be completed and have concerns about the project, including costs to taxpayers and land rights. Texas Central and Amtrak announced a potential partnership earlier this month.

"The high-speed rail line being studied in North Texas would provide connections with local transportation systems and link directly to future high-speed services such as the planned Dallas-to-Houston high-speed rail line," the Wednesday news release reads.

North Texas leaders rally for high-speed rail, envisions Bryan-College Station link

By Donnie Tuggle August 29, 2023

DALLAS-FT. WORTH, Texas (KBTX) -North Texas leaders are moving forward with plans for a high-speed train along Interstate 30, connecting the DFW Metroplex to the proposed Texas Central Dallas-Houston line.

Those same leaders say they would like to see a statewide system that would connect cities like Austin, San Antonio, Laredo, and even College Station.

They say they would like to have what's being considered as a one-seat ride, meaning instead of a single company having exclusive rights to the rail lines, it is envisioned that it would operate more like airports, which allow for many carriers. This would allow the traveling public to benefit from a competitive marketplace.

The North Central Texas Council of Governments is currently conducting studies and planning meetings to move forward to the next steps.

These efforts, while not new, have gained renewed momentum following Amtrak and Texas Central's recent partnership announcement.

The formal National Environmental Policy Act (NEPA) review process of the Dallas-Fort Worth High-Speed Transportation Connections Study will kick off in September, and the North Central Texas Council of Governments is hosting four open house events to allow the public a chance to learn more about the project.

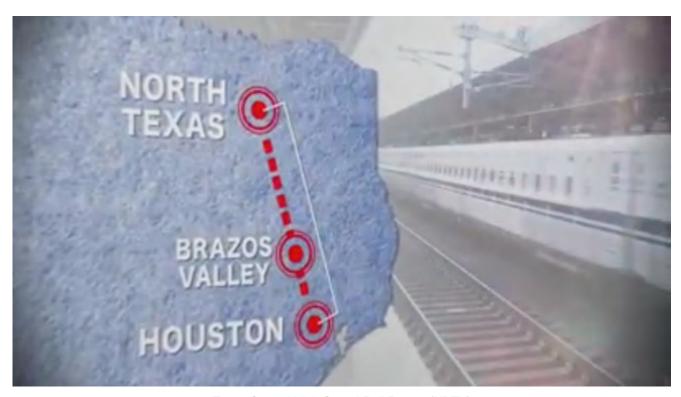

A rendering of the high-speed train. (Texas Central Partners) (KWTX)

The NCTCOG says that in Phase 1 of the initiative, planners assessed high-speed transportation options, encompassing alignments and diverse high-speed technologies, aimed at improving travel between Dallas, Arlington, and Fort Worth. Currently, the progressing high-speed transportation endeavor connecting Dallas and Fort Worth has entered Phase 2. This phase concentrates on a sole corridor and specified station sites, with the objective of appraising potential social and environmental repercussions along the corridor.

Michael Morris, transportation director for the NCTCOG, says planners and engineers have designated the favored route, which is predominantly situated along Interstate Highway 30 connecting downtown Dallas and downtown Fort Worth, and includes a halt at the Arlington Entertainment District. At present, they are progressing with the preliminary engineering design of this alignment to facilitate the assessment of social and environmental impacts associated with the high-speed rail.

Morris says the high-speed rail line being studied in North Texas would provide connections with local transportation systems and link directly to future high-speed services, such as the planned Dallas-to-Houston high-speed rail line.

According to research conducted by the NCTCOG, the metropolitan region spanning 12 counties currently has a population of around 8 million people, with projections indicating the addition of more than 3 million individuals by 2045. The estimated population for 2045, surpassing 11 million, would represent a roughly 50% increase compared to 2018 figures.

Texas Central High Speed Rail Route (KBTX)

As far as Amtrak's and Texas Central's partnership, Morris says all options are on the table.

"I don't know if Amtrak and Texas Central Partners' holding company will be the final delivery mechanism between Dallas and Houston, but at least we're still alive, and we have submitted to Washington under the Corridor Identification Program. This partnership to connect Fort Worth, Arlington, Dallas, College Station, and Houston," Morris added.

Allan Rutter is with the Texas A&M Transportation Institute. He says investments like this come at a major cost and are full of potential challenges.

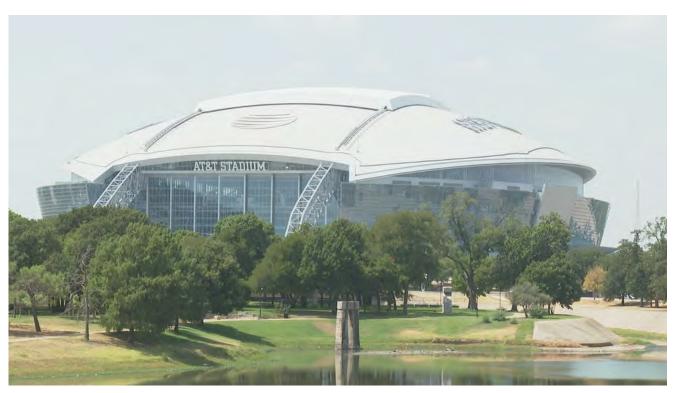

"I think the main thing to remember is the high-speed rail is really expensive, uh, and trying to figure out how this, or any other developer finds the billions of dollars that are necessary to make it happen, gets it built, and gets it operating. That's the biggest hurdle these guys have."

But if accomplished, Rutter says having a high-speed train in College Station could have its benefits.

"I think it'd be useful and interesting to see how somebody plans on connecting to the university, given there's 70,000 students and a whole lot of activity. But when that happens and how that happens is a sort of open-ended question."

Morris added that the economic and convenience impacts of a project of this magnitude are limitless.

For example, attending a Cowboys game in Arlington, an Astros game in Houston, or experiencing the 12th man at Kyle Field could be as simple as a one-hour train ride to Houston or Dallas from College Station, as opposed to a two- to three-hour drive.

AT&T Stadium, Arlington, TX (KBTX)

"You could have a one-seat ride from A&M University and College Station to the law school in Fort Worth without getting off the train. A&M University could recruit faculty potentially to come to teach at A&M University Medical School, veterinarians, and others who may live in Houston and in Dallas-Fort Worth, taking the high-speed rail to get to the campus. So once you start thinking of high-speed rail in what we call mega regions, you start noodling around other elements to build economies of scale with regard to these particular investments," said Morris.

Here locally, Brazos Valley Council of Governments Executive Director Michael Parks says they haven't received official communications about the partnership or project, but stress the importance of transportation and the need to listen to all stakeholders.

"I believe in great transportation systems, and I think if we were able to get somehow an Amtrak, that would be great. It's just another feather in our cap for transportation mobility across the state. But each area, each region has to decide for themselves," said Parks.

"I know that Texas is growing. Interstate 35, and Interstate 45 are full, and in the future, we're going to have to have conversations about how we move around the state. And so I hope that nothing is off-limits in terms of talking about it," Parks added.

The Houston-to-Dallas portion of the high-speed train has garnered significant pushback and resistance over the last decade, primarily concerns about Texas Central's transparency, funding, and landowners' rights. Morris acknowledged these concerns and stated that they do not fall on deaf ears.

Michael Morris, transportation director for the NCTCOG (KBTX)

"To the credit of the two county judges in Waller and Grimes, they came and visited us about three weeks ago, and I thought that was really cool that they did that. We extended a path forward to them. We gave them a high-speed rail version 2.0. We told them we were hearing rumors that there may be an announcement in some form or fashion with regard to the high-speed rail service. I think we'll learn more about what the Federal Railroad Administration's interest is. We're more than happy to keep this vision alive and see what the future could be with regard to mitigating whatever the issues that occur in Grimes and Waller as well as advancing hopefully high-speed rail one day between our two mega-regions," said Morris.

When asked if Morris was concerned about the critics and criticism of the rail line, he says it's nothing he hasn't experienced before over his more than 30-year career.

"I've been doing this for four decades, and I can point to 20 projects that, you know, I was told would never happen, but you keep communicating. You keep trying to get grassroots support. You keep alleviating whatever the criticisms are and continue to work on gaining consensus. I think that's our responsibility in the public service, to continue to have those conversations," said Morris.

"I'm a very optimistic person, largely driven by the success of major transportation investments in the Dallas-Fort Worth region. You know, before I came here, the DFW Airport bond election failed, and now DFW Airport is the second busiest airport in the United States. Our transportation authority's first election, and in 1980, those elections failed, and now we have three very successful transportation authorities in the Dallas-Fort Worth region," Morris added.

High-speed rail project enters next phase, invites public input

September 8, 2023

FORT WORTH, Texas — The next phase of a high-speed rail project linking Fort Worth, Arlington, and Dallas is underway, with the North Central Texas Council of Governments (NCTCOG) seeking public opinion on the development.

The proposed rail line is set to provide connections with local transportation systems and a direct link to future high-speed services, including the planned Dallas-to-Houston high-speed rail line.

The formal review process under the National Environmental Policy Act (NEPA) for the Dallas-Fort Worth High-Speed Transportation Connections Study commenced this month. The NCTCOG is hosting a series of open houses to educate the public about the project and foster open dialogue. These events, mirroring the format of meetings held during the project's first phase in 2021, feature a short video about the project and presentation boards explaining the high-speed technologies and the recommended route.

Phase 1 of the project saw planners evaluating high-speed transportation alternatives to improve travel between Dallas, Arlington, and Fort Worth. The current Phase 2 focuses on identifying station locations and assessing potential social and environmental impacts along the preferred corridor. This corridor generally follows I-30 between downtown Dallas and downtown Fort Worth, with a stop in the Arlington Entertainment District.

The final open house is scheduled for Thursday, September 7, in Dallas. For more details, visit the project page on the NCTCOG website.

Dallas to Fort Worth in 20 minutes? What to know about North Texas' high-speed rail plan

North Texas officials are moving forward with their push for a high-speed rail linking Dallas and Fort Worth with a stop in Arlington, but don't expect to board a bullet train any time soon.

A proposal by the North Central Texas Council of Governments, already years in the works, is moving into a new phase, which includes a deeper look at plans related to engineering, environmental impact, ridership estimates, operations and maintenance and costs. The process is expected to span the next year and a half.

The connection of Dallas and Fort Worth by a train that can reach 250 mph comes with a number of challenges, but could bring economic opportunities, said Allan Rutter, a senior research scientist at Texas A&M Transportation Institute.

"There's a lot to be said for the sort of economic benefits to both cities by the growth of each other, even though historically Amon Carter would never agree to that," Rutter said, referring to the legendary Star-Telegram publisher and Fort Worth booster who would occasionally as a joke carry a sack lunch with him to Dallas rather than spend money there.

The council is hosting a series of open houses starting Tuesday where members of the public can learn more about the project and offer suggestions.

The idea is to ultimately link the route to a proposed high-speed rail line that would connect Dallas and Houston in less than 90 minutes.

The route and travel time

The trip from Dallas to Fort Worth would take about 20 minutes along a route that follows Interstate 30.

The exact stops are still being studied, but the Fort Worth stop is expected to be near Fort Worth Central Station. In Arlington, an elevated station between North Center Street and North Collins Street or an underground tunnel station between AT&T Way and Ballpark Way are recommended, according to a report outlining the findings from the first phase of the study.

The Dallas stop would be south of downtown by the Interstate 30 and Interstate 35E interchange or beneath a station proposed as part of the Dallas to Houston rail being explored by Texas Central.

The Texas Central plan has been in the works for about a decade. It has faced pushback from opponents whose concerns include land rights and potential costs to taxpayers. Texas Central and Amtrak announced a potential partnership on the route earlier in August.

The North Central Texas Council of Governments, an association of local governments to help with regional development, seeks to extend that line to Fort Worth.

"Why would you want the end of the line to be in Dallas County and then everyone has to transfer to the TRE, which would take an hour, or transfer to some other mode of transportation," said Michael Morris, the director of transportation for the council, in a Aug. 11 interview with the Star-Telegram.

Texas Central and Amtrak declined to comment.

The North Central Texas Council of Governments recently applied for a grant from the Federal Railroad Administration to help develop the potential Fort Worth to Houston route. The proposal, which Texans Against High Speed Rails obtained through an open records request and shared with the Star-Telegram, includes several letters of support from state and local officials, including Fort Worth Mayor Mattie Parker, Arlington Mayor Jim Ross, Houston Mayor Sylvester Turner and Dallas County Judge Clay Jenkins.

Potential challenges

One key question is how the rail would be funded, said Rutter, with the Texas A&M Transportation Institute. He expects those discussions will happen in the study's second phase. The private sector will likely get involved, but there are also federal dollars available that could help with the project, Rutter said.

The United States trails other countries on the construction of high-speed rails, though several projects are in the works, and Amtrak's Acela runs between Boston and Washington at 150 mph.

Rutter attributes that delay to the "steep price tag."

"Other decisions or other choices have been made," he said. "We've chosen to invest an awful lot of money into commercial aviation and giving people the freedom to have highways open up travel opportunities for both peoples and goods movement."

Texans Against High Speed Rails has raised concerns about potential costs to taxpayers associated with the Houston to Dallas Project. Texas Central has previously said the project would be done without public funding, according to The Texas Tribune. But Texas Central and Amtrak said they've applied for federal grants to study and design the proposed project in a August news release announcing their potential partnership.

There are also questions of land rights and the physical construction of the Dallas to Fort Worth rail. For instance, it would likely have to be elevated given the soil type in North Central Texas and the need for a flat service, Rutter said. That can be expensive, but could also minimize the amount of space needed to build the project along I-30.

"We're almost all in public sector right-of-way," Morris said. "So there isn't a big right-of-way element. We're in the interstate 30 corridor, and we'll just have to see if we can get consensus in the environmental process to move forward toward implementation."

Were it to come to fruition though, the project could open new possibilities for the Metroplex as it booms.

"Now that comes with a price tag, but that kind of speed of travel between those two city centers could open up all kinds of possibilities for people to work in one city and live in the other, people to business between each other," Rutter said. "It just might open up Fort Worth and Dallas to grow even closer."

Waller County Judge Trey Duhon, president of the advocacy group Texans Against High-Speed Rail, said the group is not against high-speed rail in general, but that any project has to make sense and be feasible. He said it does seem strange to have a high speed rail connecting two cities that are only 30 to 40 minutes apart.

Questions he'd ask of the project include ridership projects, ticket prices and potential revenue. Ridership estimates are expected in the plan's second phase. Preliminary estimates of travel demand project 27,100 to 54,300 daily rail passengers, depending on the project's connectivity to other possible high speed rail routes, according to the grant proposal.

"Everybody should be transparent," he said. "Because if this is something that the taxpayers in Dallas-Fort Worth are going to underwrite, even if they're not directly impacted — like I've always said, it may not come through your backyard but it may go through your pocketbook — those people have a right to know how those numbers work," Duhonsaid.

No matter one's stance on a North Texas high-speed rail, there's still time for the project to come to fruition or fizzle out.

Morris said it's premature to outline a timeline to construction. Rutter predicted construction is still years away, at the very least.

Bridging the Nation's Digital Divide for the Next Generation

By Rev. Dr. R. B. Holmes

The nation's Historically Black Colleges and Universities (HBCUs) have a rich and storied history dating back to 1837, when the Cheyney University of Pennsylvania was establed. Pennsylvania was estab-lished as the first HBCU.

Today, there are 107 HB-CUs — institutions that have graduated 50 percent of Black lawyers, 40 per-cent of Black engineers, 40 percent of Black Congressmembers - and, of course, the first female Vice President. Yet, they comprise a mere 3 percent of American colleges and universi-ties. Despite their celebrated history and societal contrihistory and societal contri-butions, HBCUs have been underfunded for decades. leaving them without the resources that non-HBCUs possess, including crucially important high speed internet infrastructure.

An astounding 82 percent of HBCUs are in so-called broadband deserts, regions that lack fast and reliable internet access. This impacts students' ability to proper-ly and timely complete as-signments, take care of everyday needs, and continue to develop important digital skills. The need for HBCUs to be on equal digital footing has become even more critical as many experts are expecting an influx of students in the wake of the U.S. Supreme Court's decision barring the use of race as a factor in college admissions. Morehouse College, for example, anticipates a 50 to 100 percent increase in applications by 2026.

It's important for Black college students to have a grasp on digital skills even before they set foot on an HBCU campus, but the "digital divide" is likely to have already set them back. Nationwide, only 65 per-cent of Hispanics and 71 percent of Blacks have in-ternet service of any kind in their homes, compared to 80 percent of whites. The "digital divide" for Black Americans is equally pronounced in urban and rural areas. Urban whites are more than twice as likely to have high speed internet than urban Blacks. In the rural South, the same split is 77 percent to 62 percent.

The need for high-speed internet access will only continue to grow in com-ing years. Studies already show a correlation be-tween broadband access and household income, and experts suggest that bridging the digital divide will promote social mobility and economic equality. As the economy continues to modernize, the need for digital skills will only increase. State lawmakers around the country have an oppor-tunity to build that bridge, including in my home state in Florida where an estimated 508,000 Blacks and 641,000 Hispanics lack access to high-speed internet. That would ensure more Americans have a bright economic future and the next generation is prepared to compete in the digital

If my home state is any measure, it is vitally important for state leaders to take action at a time when many do not share in some of the nation's economic success. More than 20 percent of Black Floridians live under the poverty line, compared to just 13 percent of all Floridians and 14 percent of all Americans, Black Floridians are also more likely to be unemployed, with the Black unemployment rate in the state sitting at nearly four percent compared to just 2.6 percent overall.

Coach Prime Stuns TCU Horned Frogs with 45-42 Upset Win on the Road

The Buffs put up 45 points on No. 17 TCU, scored on seven of their first 12 drives, averaged seven yards per play and won a nonconference game on the road for the first time in five years. Shedeur, son of coach Deion Sanders, completed a super-lative 38 of 47 passes on the afternoon in a 45-42 victory. The Buffs survived a wild shootout that featured six lead changes in the second half en route to the program's first victory away from Folsom Field since the pandemic sea-son of 2020 and first win over a ranked team on the road

The game saw three lead changes in a span of 6:40 late in the third quarter and early in the fourth, capped by a 19-yard run from TCU QB Chandler Morris with 10:49 to go in the game, giving the hosts a 35-31 cushion.

NOTICE OF PUBLIC HEARING ON TAX INCREASE

tion has been proposed by the govern ng body of City of Blue Ridge.

PROPOSED TAX RATE NO-NEW-REVENUE TAX RATE VOTER-APPROVAL TAX RATE DE MINIMIS RATE

$0.500000 per $100 $0.431319 per $100 $0.399195 per $100 $0.976589 per $100

The no-new-revenue tax rate is the tax rate for the 2023 tax year that will raise the same amount of proper tax revenue for City of Blue Ridge from the same properties in both the 2022 tax year and the 2023 tax year.

The voter-approval rate is the highest tax rate that City of Blue Ridge may adopt without holding an election to seek voter approval of the rate, unless the de minimis rate for City of Blue Ridge exceeds the voter approval rate for City of Blue Ridge.

The de minimis rate is the rate equal to the sum of the no-new-revenue maintenance and operations City of Blue Ridge, the rate that will raise $500,000, and the current debt rate for City of Blue Ridge

The proposed tax rate is greater than the no-new-revenue tax rate. This means that City of Blue Ridge is proposing to increase property taxes for the 2023 tax year.

A PUBLIC HEARING ON THE PROPOSED TAX RATE WILL BE HELD ON August 28, 2023 AT 7:00 PM AT Blue Ridge Community Center, 200 W Titon, Blue Ridge, TX 75424.

The proposed tax rate is greater than the voter-approval tax rate but not greater than the de minimis rate. However, the proposed tax rate exceeds the rate that allows voters to petition for an election under Section 26,075. Tax Code. If City of Blue Ridge adopts the proposed tax rate; the qualified voters of the City of Blue Ridge may petition the City of Blue Ridge to require an election to be held to determine whether to reduce the proposed tax rate. If a majority of the voters reject the proposed tax rate, the lax rate of the City of Blue Ridge will be the voter-approval tax rate of the City of Blue Ridge.

Roundabout slated to open this summer

As the city of McKinney plans to continue to introduce roundabouts to the city's road network, here's what drivers need to know:

along Wilmeth Road at Ridge Road, Lake
Forest Drive, Taylor Burk Drive and Hardin Boulevard. An additional roundabout will be located at Louisiana Street and Greenville

Road.

Located throughout the metroplex, roundabouts offer a continuous flow of traffic while keeping drivers at a safe speed, when used correctly.

The city of McKinney encourages drivers to practice basic defensive driving skills when approaching and driving through a roundabout. Drivers are encouraged to slow down, yield to drivers already in the roundabout, follow the direction of traffic, stay in your lane and use your signal when exiting. your lane and use your signal when exiting.

Residents encouraged to help protect water quality

August is National Water Quality Month.
Residents are encouraged to protect McKinney's environment and businesses.
Here are three steps to avoid polluting storm drains and waterways.

• Don't allow vehicle fluids or water from washing, discharge points, oil traps, filters and separators run to stormwater drains to fall to the ground and wash away

- Protect and store chemicals, paint oils and other materials that could wash off-site
- Clean up spills immediately. Keep spill response equipment available at all times.
 While pollutants flow into local streams

While pollutants flow into local streams and creeks, those small bodies of water feed into larger rivers and lakes. If polluted, local lakes will be closed to those who enjoy activities like boating, fishing and swimming. Polluted waterways also destroy property values, as chemicals can promote erosion near creeks and streams, flooding and foul odors become more prevalent and trash can deter potential home buyers. Additionally, the city's water supply will be affected by pollutants, resulting in more chemicals in residents' drinking water and more money required to treat polluted waterways.

Residents can learn more about protecting city waterways at McKinneyTexas.org/Stormwater.

Police Department encourages back to school safety

As students return to school, the McKinney Police Department reminds commuters that the city has more than 70 school zones with flashing beacons. To keep students safe, commuters must obey school zone speed limits, yield to pedestrians in crosswalks, keep distrations away from the driver, never pass a bus when you see flashing lights and always look out for children. Success! I was happy for my grand-daughter that things went well and I chose not to share the story of her Papa's first day of school many years ago. My very first school day at Sacred Heart Elementary School in Jersey City (NJ) was not my best but it was certainly memorable. I don't remember the details but it involved bringing a note home from the principal. I never saw it but I'm sure the note read something like this...

"Dear Mrs. Carroll - your son Timothy and Nicholas Terrafranca were disciplined today for playing on the rectory steps. Students were instructed after mass not to play near the rectory and disturb the priests. Father Giamato brought this to my attention when he returned the playground ball that was left on the porch. I hope this is not the behavior we can expect from Timothy at Sacred Heart in the coming year." - Sister Mary Veronica.

Actually, it was exactly the behavior they came to expect but that's a column for another day. Luckily for me the nuns, like all teachers, were very good at forgiving and "helping me make good choices."

I had applied to graduate school and a woman from admissions was checking my grades and record to see if I'd make a worthy candidate. "We found one discrepancy." "We found one discrepancy," she said. It occurred in 1961 and involved a nun, a priest and a kickball. Maybe you could explain that for me?" Some fast talking saved my career but let that serve as a warning to all the future kindergrathers out there. Ed. dergartners out there. Fol-low the rules kids and stay away from the rectory.

'Building our future'

Learn how Metrocrest Services became a beacon of hope for those in need

ARIANNA MORRISON

Metrocrest Services held a grand opening ceremony for its new campus on Thursday, Aug. 17, welcoming hundreds of supporters to explore its new home with a 450-foot ribbon cutting.

During the grand opening, the organization's staff, volunteers, board and supporters shared their hopes and dreams for the future of the nonprofit, and how the space will continue to provide access to food, workforce development and financial literacy, rent and utility assistance, senior services, and more to those people who may need assistance.

"When we started this journey three years aro, in terms of fundraising, there's no way ten here."

Metrocrest Services' new campus is 48,000 square feet on 4.6 acres in Carrollton, becoming a welcoming hub for all of the agency's daily operations. The campus also has a shared space for complementary service providers to support clients from one central location and a volunteer center for more opportunities for community engagement.

The nonprofit raised more than $18 million to help fund the new facility. The idea for the new Metrocrest Services campus itself has been in the works for over 20 years, and was just something that was talked about for over 16 years, said Andy Dastur, Chair of the Metrocrest Services Board of Directors.

"In February of 2020, we officially launched our 'Building Our Future' capital campaign," Dastur said. "And needless to say, we're here and mission accomplished."

There was one aspect that the Metrocrest

Services Facility Task Force did not foresee, which was the COVID-19 pandemic.
"Nobody predicted the pandemic was going to cause the kind of disruption it did to all of our lives," Dastur said. "And of course, to those most in need. We experienced an unprecedented demand for services and there was a lot of fear from families who went for insurance and couldn't pay their hills. During the grand opening ceremony, each presenter agreed that there was still a lot of work to be done in terms of Metrocrest Services' future, but the new campus was just the beginning.

In 2020, Metrocrest Services helped 28,000 residents only from the footprint of the nonprofit, which includes Carrollton, Farmers Branch, Addison, Coppell, and parts of Dallas. From just 2019 to 2020, the volume of people needing help doubled.

Since opening its doors this summer in the new location, 17% of the people who have walked through the front door are new to needing services, according to Dastur.

"In addition to the fact that we're all enjoying this great place, we're able to help people that maybe weren't able to get to the old facility." Dastur said. "And certainly the need has never been greater. The building and all the hope that it holds for our community's future would not exist if it weren't for the support of literally every person in this room."

Metrocrest Services will be hosting a housewarming party on Tuesday, Sept. 12 from 1 to 4 p.m. The new facility is located at 1145 N. Josey Lane, Carrollton, TX 75006.

More than 40 years after former First Lady Nancy Reagan launched her famous "Just Say No" advertising campaign, Texas and the rest of the nation are once again trying to com-bat youth drug use through public school awareness pro-

The Drug Abuse Resistance Education initiative — commonly known as D.A.R.E. — was introduced to schools in the early 1980s. It was designed to equip elementary and high school students with and high school students with the skills to avoid drugs by standing up to peer pressure, but the program began to fade out of school districts across the country by the middle of the 2000s due to lack of results. This hasn't stopped other anti-drug programs from taking its place over the years as the country constantly scrambles to figure out how to solve the problem of youth drug abuse. Now, Texas is about to launch its latest anti-drug pro-

"He told me the first time he was offered a pill, and it wasn't enough to save him. Having a loving family wasn't enough to save him," Turner said at the "One Pill Kills" summit that was held in April. "This can happen to any family."

Turner's statement gets to the heart of why previous anti-drug instruction has had such meager results.

Some mental health providers in Texas worry the state's new emphasis on fentanyl education will be a repeat of the D.A.R.E. program mistakes made decades ago. "Kids have to understand why they are buying pills in the first place," said Kathleen Hassenfratz, a licensed professional counselor and board substance abuse disorder have

"Students who are experiencing thoughts about self-harm are more often advancing those thoughts into action. They now have thoughts, plus a plan, plus action," Jennifer Akins, a licensed professional counselor and president of the Texas School Counselors Association told Counseling Today in 2022.

Those key years when kids learn how to "monitor, evaluate and modify emotions that arise following a stimulus" happened behind computer screens as they stayed at home for online classes during the pandemic. "A lot of it has been lumped together as an anxiety crisis. I would say we have seen a crisis in social skills, conflict resolution and self management," Summer Rose, a Dalas-based chief clinical officer for Communities In Schools, for Communities In Schools, an anti-dropout program that works with public and charter schools. "You forced every-body to only live in a digital body to only live in a digital world and then put them back in school and told them to do what they were doing but in real life, but they haven't been taught how to do that in the real world."

Mental health and substance abuse have been linked for many years, but how closely these two correlate has been a topic of research for years.

A 2002 study that looked at two national surveys on drug use concluded that un-art wo haddon's streys on drug use concluded that un-met mental health care needs among those with a mental illness will most likely lead to self-medication in the future. "Results suggest that time-ly screening and treatment of mental health problems may prevent the development of substance-use disorders among those with mental dis-orders," the study states. Dr. Sarah Martin, division director of child and adoles-cent psychiatry at Texas Tech University Health Sciences Center El Paso, said poor men-tal health and substance abuse among young people can be

Some young people may think that they can use substances like illicit drugs or alcohol as an easier or cheaper way to find relief instead of seeking professional help, but substance abuse often makes pyschiatric symptoms worse.

Martin said she thinks all

Martin said she thinks all public health improvement starts with education, and school is a great place to make sure children and adolescents receive accurate information.

"Substance use disorder is one type of mental health problem, and when you have one problem of this type, you are more likely to have other problems in the same area," she said. "So educating students about mental health and substance abuse makes a lot of sense, and as a psychiatrist,
I treat both problems at the same time because they are both so harmful to a child's future. Good mental health is not possible if a substance use disorder exists, and vice versa."

Hassenfratz of the Engage and Heal Foundation said that's why the group is looking to gauge lawmakers' interest in this upcoming special session about attaching a mental health literacy component to Tucker's Law. The group would like mental health literacy added for all public school students.

"You're teaching biology, you're learning about genetics and genes and the way hereditary things are passed down. At the same time, you can talk about how mental health issues are genetically passed down as yeal!" Hessenfratz exid. "The

In whatever form it takes, whether a separate bill or an addition to the fentanyl education program, the group would like the potential addendum to be named for Erik Hanson, a highly accomplished 2017 Lake Travis High School graduate who died by suicide one year into college.

Amelia Floyd, Engage and Heal's president and co-founder, said if the group can't get a mental health literacy program in schools then they want to make sure every district's website has a mental health component to explain emotions, feelings and mental health in general.

"You can be sad, but depression is a whole different thing," Hassenfratz said. "One is a clinical issue and we need to teach the students the different

A growing number of young people are turning to social media platforms such as Instagram and TikTok for guidance, resources and support for their mental health or to find a condition they think matches their feelings. This trend has alarmed therapists and school counselors as mental health diagnoses are being used almost as descriptors in used almost as descriptors in stead of an illness.
"It has become kind of cool

"It has become kind of cool to be able to say you have something even though they haven't been clinically diagnosed. They just say words, like, I have anxiety," Hassenfratz said. She said young people need to learn to recognize when stress becomes unmanageable.

Relying on the internet to self-diagnosis is not a new trend. But mental health protrend. But mental health providers are concerned that students are now taking any emotion as a sign of mental illness and in turn are now self-medicating their problems away.

"A student will say, 'I have three or four of the things someone had on a slide on TikTok or Instagram. Does that mean I am suicidal?" Rose said. "They are asking more questions, which we love because me and my team are licensed professionals."

Rose said schools have a valuable opportunity to reach students at an early age to teach them about emotional regulation.

"Schools are uniquely positioned to be able to play that critical role in supporting students learning about these conditions in a nonstigmatizing way," she said. This article originally appeared in The Texas Tribune at https://www.texastribune.org/2023/08/23/texas-schools-fentanyl-mental-health/.

Still, partnering with the restaurants costs less than contracting with a town hall or a church, said Janet Buls, nutrition director, Northeast Iowa Area Agency on Aging.

"El objetivo... es que cada escuela primaria tenga un tiempo de respuesta, de parte de nuestro departamento de policía, de cinco minutos, si no es que menos, hasta que cada escuela tenga un oficial de seguridad armado", dijo Elizalde. Texas tiene 318 marshals escolares registrados en 77 distritos, de acuerdo con Gretchen Grigsby, directora de relaciones gubernamentales de Texas Commission on Law Enforcement.

Dijo que se ha visto crecer el interés desde que fue aprobada la nueva ley.

Bajo el plan de guardianes del estado, que tiene reglas menos estrictas, los vocales escolares pueden autorizar a los empleados portar armas en las escuelas, con algunas limitaciones.

La más reciente auditoría de Texas School Safety Center, que abarca hasta 2020, encontró que um mínimo de Los padres no siempre saben quién está armado en las escuelas. Los marshals puguardianes escolares pueden permanecer anónimos por ley estatal.

DFW High-Speed Update (Newsletter)

DFW HIGH-SPEED UPDATE THE LATEST MOVEMENTS IN THE DALLAS-FORT WORTH HIGH-SPEED TRANSPORTATION CONNECTIONS STUDY

SUMMER 2023

Get Up to Speed! Next Stop, Phase 2

High-speed travel across DFW is one step closer with the Phase 2 kickoff of the Dallas-Fort Worth High-Speed Transportation Connections Study (DFWHSTCS)! "We are laying important groundwork so the project runs smoothly, gaining support and momentum," said Michael Morris, PE, North Central Texas Council of Governments (NCTCOG) Director of Transportation.

Michael Morris, PF. of Transportation

Plans regarding engineering, environmental effects, ridership estimates, operations and maintenance, implementation, and finances for the corridor will be drafted over the next year and a half. "Most importantly, Phase 2 lets the community give further input to help us shape the project in ways that benefit everyone in the community," continued Morris.

After initial design plans are completed by early fall, NCTCOG will begin documentation for the National Environmental Policy Act (NEPA) process, a federal requirement for assessing the project's potential effects on the community and natural environment. Learn more about NEPA on page 3.

DFW High-Speed Rail

Possibilities for high-speed transportation continue to emerge as experts study more in-depth how DFWHSTCS should connect to Texas' other major metro areas. NCTCOG is studying the potential to incorporate the federally approved high-speed rail (HSR) alignment proposed between Dallas and Houston with DFWHSTCS.

"These are exciting times to be living and working in Texas, and NCTCOG looks forward to collaborating across our state to make high-speed transportation a reality," added Morris.

"Of course, our team is enthusiastic about the multiple HSR possibilities emerging across Texas and what they mean to North Central Texas. Stay tuned! We are focused on moving full speed ahead with DFWHSTCS to reach environmental clearance within the next 16 months, effectively advancing this project to the level of planning of the proposed alignment between Dallas and Houston," said Dan Lamers, PE, NCTCOG Senior Project Manager.

Phase 1 Leaving the Station

Phase I of DFWHSTCS explored how to bring high-speed transportation to North Texas. After reviewing five transportation modes and 43 potential routes, NCTCOG determined high-speed rail (HSR) along I-30 was the best way to link Fort Worth and Dallas quickly and reliably.

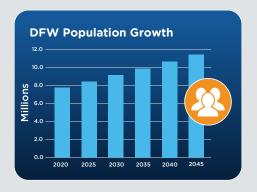

Commonly referred to as a "bullet train," HSR has been widely used across Europe and Asia for decades and is a time-tested solution for rapid transit. In Japan, there have been over 10 billion passenger rides on HSR without a single injury or fatality for over 50 years.

"The proposed alignment and mode of transportation emphasize safety, speed, and limiting disruptions to the community," noted Lamers. "There are no intersections with roads, preventing the possibility of collisions with vehicles."

The planned route connects the existing Fort Worth Central Station and a proposed station in Dallas near Kay Bailey Hutchison Convention Center.

A third proposed station in the Arlington Entertainment District could provide easy access to top destinations such as AT&T Stadium, Globe Life Field, and Six Flags Over DFWHSTCS is led by NCTCOG in collaboration with TxDOT, the Federal Transit Administration (FTA), and the Federal Rail Administration (FRA).

The Need for High-Speed!

Phase I documented the pressing need for high-speed transportation between Dallas and Fort Worth. DFW is forecasted to grow nearly 50% by 2045, at which point 11.4 million people will call the area home. This population boom will add millions of motorists onto already congested roads, leading to increased travel times.

"Sure, you could still drive between Fort Worth and Dallas if you really wanted, or you could hop on HSR and get there in just 23 minutes," said Lamers. "So kick back, relax, and wave at drivers stuck in traffic while you zip by at high-speed."

The Phase 1 report will be available on our website at www.nctcog.org/dfw-hstcs soon.

NEPA Protects Our Communities and the Environment

PUBLIC SAFETY AND ASSURANCE

Signed into law by President Nixon in 1970, the National Environmental Policy Act (NEPA) requires governmental agencies to assess if and how their decisions might affect the environment and the surrounding community. This process must happen before construction begins, giving the project team time to evaluate environmental effects, propose mitigation to minimize negative impacts, and give the community opportunities to have their voices heard.

The Importance of NEPA

Following World War II, the federal government began a major expansion of the U.S. highway system. This construction, although well-intentioned, threatened to cut through delicate ecosystems and established communities. Local residents pushed back and demanded to have their voices heard on projects directly affecting them. The government listened, and NEPA was created.

NEPA requires a comparison between the impacts of not doing the proposed project (the "no-build alternatives") to those of doing the project (the "build alternatives"). Effects on the neighborhoods, community assets (e.g., parks, schools), air quality, noise, ecosystems, water, cultural resources, economics, and the transportation network are all considered during this process.

Minimizing Negative Effects, Maximizing Positive Effects

NEPA requires federal agencies to consider appropriate mitigation measures during the NEPA process

Mitigation includes avoiding, minimizing, rectifying, reducing over time, and compensating for adverse impacts. For example, a noise analysis will be conducted as part of the > environmental impacts analysis. If a noise impact is identified, the project team will look for opportunities to avoid and/ or minimize that impact. If avoidance and minimization is not possible, then mitigation would occur, possibly in the form of a noise wall.

"NEPA empowers the local community to be heard and help shape the project. To minimize potential negative effects, we are following an established transportation corridor and planning to stay predominantly within the existing I-30 right-of-way," said Ian Bryant, AICP, HNTB Project Manager.

"When we are finished, the public can be assured this project has been subjected to exhaustive review, and the outcome represents the choices most advantageous to residents and neighbors," said Morris. "High-speed transportation is already in use around the world. Aside from the likelihood of being a real driver of economic development, it helps create more sustainable, clean, efficient, and cohesive communities."

Let Your Voices Be Heard

Community Planning for High-Speed Rail

"High-speed rail requires input from many organizational partners, but it also needs community input," said Rebekah Gongora, NCTCOG Communications Manager. "The feedback we receive when people contact us o comment at public meetings is invaluable in helping us address community needs and concerns.

APPENDIX C - VISUALS AND MEETING MATERIALS SCRIPT

August/September 2023 Open House Presentation Script English and Spanish

Slide 1

Hello and welcome to the North Central Texas Council of Governments Open House for the Dallas-Fort Worth High-Speed Transportation Connections Study.

Hola, y Bienvenidos a la reunión pública de North Central Texas Council of Governments para el Estudio de Conexiones de Transporte de Alta Velocidad de Dallas a Fort Worth.

Slide 2

The purpose of this series of Open Houses is to provide the public and project stakeholders an update on the status of this project, lay out next steps in the planning process, and provide an opportunity for the public to ask questions and comment on the proposed alignment and upcoming federal environmental process. More detailed project information accompanying this presentation include exhibits, roll plots of the full alignment between Fort Worth and Dallas, informational handouts, and other project resources such as noise samples of real-world high-speed rail.

El propósito de esta serie de reuniones públicas es para proporcionar una actualización sobre el estado actual del proyecto al público y las partes interesadas del proyecto, establecer los próximos pasos en el proceso de planificación, y brindar una oportunidad para que el público puede hacer preguntas y comentar sobre la alineación y el próximo proceso ambiental federal. La información más detallada del proyecto que acompaña a esta presentación incluye exhibiciones y planos de la alineación completa entre Fort Worth y Dallas, varios folletos informativos y otros recursos del proyecto, como muestras de ruido del tren de alta velocidad del mundo real.

Slide 3

During this presentation, we want to highlight the purpose and need for the project and how it fits into the planned statewide system.

Durante esta presentación, queremos resaltar el propósito y la necesidad del proyecto y cómo encaja en el sistema estatal planificado.

Slide 4

The North Central Texas Council of Governments' 2045 Mobility Update (the region's long-range transportation plan) estimates that as the region continues its rapid growth, annual congestion and delays could cost North Texans $30.1 billion by 2045. Additionally, the region is projected to experience a 51.4% population increase to over 11 million people by 2045. Dallas-Fort Worth isn't the only region to experience this growing strain on its transportation infrastructure; the entire state of Texas expects to grow at a similar pace as well, putting additional strain on the already overburdened statewide highway system.

La Actualización de Movilidad 2045 del Consejo de Gobiernos del Centro Norte de Texas (el plan de transporte de largo plazo de la región) estima que a medida que la región continúa su rápido crecimiento, la congestión anual y los retrasos podrían costar a los habitantes del Norte de Texas $30.1 mil millones para el año 2045. Además, se proyecta que la región experimentará un aumento de población del 51.4% a más de 11 millones de personas para el año 2045. Dallas-Fort Worth no es la única región que experimenta esta creciente presión en su infraestructura de transporte; todo el estado de Texas también espera crecer a un ritmo similar, lo que ejercerá una presión adicional sobre el ya sobrecargado sistema de carreteras estatales.

Slide 5

With the expected growth in the Dallas-Fort Worth region, more travel choices are needed. Additional travel choices will increase connectivity to, from, and within the North Texas region, and will provide better travel time reliability, help improve air quality, and will lessen demand on the region's roadways.

Con el crecimiento anticipada en la región de Dallas-Fort Worth, se necesitan opciones de viaje más rápidas y abundantes. Opciones de viaje adicionales aumentarán la conectividad desde, y dentro de la región del norte de Texas, y proporcionarán una mayor confiabilidad del tiempo de viaje, ayudararán a mejorar la calidad del aire, y reducirán la demanda en las carreteras de la región.

To address this need, NCTCOG has been conducting the Dallas-Fort Worth High-Speed Transportation Connections Study in the hopes to lessen congestion delays and plan for the future of the DFW Metroplex.

Para abordar esta necesidad, NCTCOG ha estado realizando el estudio de conexiones de transporte de alta velocidad de Dallas-Fort Worth con la esperanza de reducir los retrasos por congestión y planificar el futuro del metroplex de DFW.

Slide 6

The primary objectives of this study are to evaluate high-speed transportation options between downtown Dallas and downtown Fort Worth. This includes analyzing both alignment and transportation mode options to:

- Connect Dallas-Fort Worth to other proposed high-performance corridor connections in the state such as the Dallas to Houston High-Speed Rail Project, and
- To enhance and better connect the DFW regional transportation system

Los objetivos principales del estudio son evaluar las opciones de transporte de alta velocidad entre el centro de Dallas y de Fort Worth. Este incluye analizar las opciones de alineación y modo de transporte a:

- -Conectar Dallas y Fort Worth con otras conexiones de corredores de alto rendimiento propuestos en el estado, como el proyecto ferroviario de alta velocidad de Dallas a Houston, y
- -Conectar mejor el sistema de transporte regional de DFW.

Several statewide studies have been done on high-speed rail and on other high-speed modes in the state including Texas Central's Dallas to Houston high-speed rail and the Fort Worth to Laredo High-Speed Transportation Study. The Dallas-Fort Worth study would connect the statewide system as planned by the Regional Transportation Council (which is the transportation policy board for the North Central Texas Council of Governments) through the Mobility 2045 Update, with a "one-seat" ride, connecting to 3 stations within the Metroplex.

Se han realizado varios estudios a nivel estatal sobre el tren de alta velocidad en el estado, incluido el tren de alta velocidad de Dallas a Houston de Texas Central y el estudio de transporte de alta velocidad de Fort Worth a Laredo. El estudio de Dallas-Fort Worth conectaría el Sistema estatal según lo planeado por el Consejo Regional de Transporte (que es la junta de políticas de transporte del Consejo de Gobiernos del Centro Norte de Texas) a través de la Actualización Mobility 2045, con un viaje de un solo asiento, que conectaría a tres estaciones dentro del Metroplex.

The first of these statewide options involves an upside-down U-shape that would allow the Dallas-Fort Worth High-Speed Rail project to connect the Dallas-to-Houston High-Speed Rail to the proposed Texas-to-Oklahoma High-Speed Rail Project via Fort Worth.

La primera de estas opciones a nivel estatal involucre una forma de U invertida que permitiría que el proyecto del Tren de Alta Velocidad de Dallas-Fort Worth conecte el Tren de Alta Velocidad de Dallas a Houston con el Proyecto ferroviario propuesto de la Línea de Alta Velocidad desde Texas a Oklahoma vía Fort Worth.

Slide 7

Events over the past year have advanced new possibilities to a statewide system resembling a Texas T-Bone structure as illustrated here. The Federal Railroad Administration has initiated several programs (such as the Corridor Identification and Development program and the Federal-State Partnership intercity passenger rail program) to advance the planning and construction of new passenger rail corridors throughout the nation. NCTCOG submitted an application to the Corridor ID program to link the Fort Worth-to-Dallas project with the Dallas-to-Houston high-speed rail project. Additionally, Amtrak recently announced their pursuit of a partnership with Texas Central on the Dallas-to-Houston high-speed rail project. With all this recent momentum, now is the right time to advance the Fort Worth-to-Dallas project through the federal environmental process, setting it up to be one of the first high-speed rail projects in Texas.

Los eventos del año pasado han avanzado nuevas posibilidades como un enfoque gradual hacia un sistema estatal que se asemeje a una estructura T-Bone de Texas, como se ilustra aquí. La Administración Federal de Ferrocarriles ha iniciado varios programas (por ejemplo, el programa de Desarrollo e Identificación de Corredores y el programa ferroviario interurbano de pasajeros de la Asociación Federal-Estatal) para avanzar e la planificación y construcción de nuevos corredores ferroviarios de pasajeros en todo el país. NCTCOG presentó una aplicación al programa Corridor ID para vincular el Proyecto el Fort Worth a Dallas con el Proyecto ferroviario de alta velocidad de Dallas a Houston. Además, Amtrak anunció recientemente su intención de asociarse con Texas Central en el proyecto ferroviario de alta velocidad de Dallas a Houston. Con todo este impulse reciente, ahora es el momento correcto para avanzar el Proyecto de Fort Worth a Dallas a través del proceso ambiental federal, convirtiéndolo en uno de los primeros proyectos ferroviarios de alta velocidad en Texas.

Instead of an Upside-down U system as discussed on the previous slide, perhaps the first high-speed rail project implemented in the state could be Fort Worth-to-Houston with a future high-speed rail corridor linking Austin, San Antonio, and Laredo to the Grimes County station near Bryan/College Station.

En lugar de un sistema en U invertida como se analizo en la diapositiva anterior, quizás el primer proyecto ferroviario de alta velocidad implementado en el estado podría ser Fort Worth a Houston con un futuro corredor ferroviario de alta velocidad que unirá Austin, San Antonio y Laredo hasta la estación del condado de Grimes cerca de Bryan y College Station.

More coordination is needed between all potential partners to make the Texas high-speed rail vision a reality, both at the state and federal levels. NCTCOG is committed to advancing those partnerships, ensuring the Dallas-Fort Worth region is seamlessly connected to a statewide system.

Se necesita más coordinación entre todos los socios potenciales para hacer realidad la visión del tren de alta velocidad de Texas, tanto a nivel estatal y federal. NCTCOG está comprometido a promover esas asociaciones, garantizando que la región de Dallas-Fort Worth este perfectamente conectada a un sistema estatal.

Slide 8

The Dallas-Fort Worth High-Speed Transportation Connections Study has been divided into two phases. The first phase analyzed all reasonable alternatives for alignments and transportation technologies, or modes, was completed last year. The second phase, the subject of this open house, will include preliminary engineering and environmental analysis and documentation as prescribed by the National Environmental Policy Act (also known as NEPA). Phase 2 includes a number of public engagement events like this open house and public meetings or hearings as well as individual stakeholder meetings. As always, questions and comments are welcome throughout the entire study process.

El Estudio de Conexiones de Transporte de Alta Velocidad Dallas-Fort Worth se dividido en dos fases. La primera fase analizó todas las alternativas razonables de alineamientos y tecnologías o modos de transporte, y concluyó el año pasado. La segunda fase, el sujeto de la reunión pública, incluirá ingeniería preliminar y análisis y documentación ambiental según lo prescrito por la Ley de Política Ambiental (también conocido como NEPA). La fase 2 incluye una serie de eventos de participación pública como esta reunión pública de casa abierta y otras reuniones o audiencias públicas, así como reuniones individuales de partes interesadas. Como siempre, las preguntas y comentarios son bienvenidos durante todo del proceso de estudio.

(Overview of Phase 1 Efforts and Recommendations: leave up for a moment, then go to next slide)

Slide 11

In Phase 1, the initial study area covered over 230 square miles. In general, the project team used previous transportation studies to identify alignments and corridors along existing transportation routes as much as possible to minimize the need to acquire additional property. This minimizes impacts to existing homes and businesses. Each alignment and corridor option connect downtown Fort Worth to downtown Dallas. In all, 43 distinct alignments and corridors were identified and analyzed in Phase 1.

En Fase 1, el área de estudio inicial cubrío más de 230 millas cuadradas. En general, el equipo del proyecto utilice estudios de transporte previos para identificar alineaciones y corredores a lo largo de las rutas de transporte existentes tanto como fuera posible para minimizar la necesidad de adquirir propiedades adicionales. Este proceso minimiza los impactos en casas existentes y negocios. Cada opción de alineación y corredor conectaría la Estación Central en el centro de Fort Worth con la estación propuesta del Tren de Alta Velocidad en el centro de Dallas. En total, en la Fase 1 se identificaron y analizaron 43 alineaciones y corredores distintos.

These were grouped into five families of options: the Trinity Railway Express alignments in purple, the Trinity River alignments in gold, the I-30 alignments in dark blue, the SH 180 alignments (which are very near the existing Union Pacific railroad alignment) in red, and the SH 303 alignments in light blue.

Estos se agruparon en cinco familias de opciones: las alineaciones de Trinity Railway Express en violeta, las alineaciones de Trinity River en dorado, las alineaciones de I-30 en azul oscuro, las alineaciones de SH 180 (que están muy cerca de la alineación ferroviario existente de Union Pacific) en rojo, y las alineaciones de SH 303 en azul claro.

Slide 12

Five transportation technologies or modes of travel were examined for their use to meet the region's travel needs. These included conventional passenger rail; higher-speed rail, which are faster than conventional trains, but slower than high-speed trains; high-speed rail, like the passenger trains proposed for the Dallas-to-Houston system; magnetic levitation (or Maglev) technology; and hyperloop technology, which incorporates a passenger or cargo pod moving in a near-vacuum tube. The project team also identified and considered other emerging transportation technologies.

Se examinaron cinco tecnologías de transporte o modos de viaje para determinar su uso para satisfacer las necesidades de viaje de la región. Estos incluían el ferrocarril de pasajeros convencional; trenes de mayor velocidad, que son más rápidos que los trenes convencionales, pero más lentos que los de alta velocidad; ferrocarril de alta velocidad, como los trenes de pasajeros propuestos para el sistema de Dallas a Houston; tecnología de levitación magnética (o Maglev); y tecnología Hyperloop, que incorpora una capsula de pasajeros o de carga que se mueve en un tubo casi al vacío. El equipo del proyecto también identificó y consideró otras tecnologías de transporte emergentes.

Slide 13

After almost 2 ½ years of study, the recommended alignment from Phase 1 generally follows the I-30 corridor between Dallas and Fort Worth with a proposed stop in Arlington. The proposed station locations include the High-Speed Rail station in downtown Dallas for the Dallas-to-Houston High-Speed Project, the Arlington Entertainment District, and Fort Worth Central Station.

Después de casi 2 ½ años, la alineación recomendada de la Fase 1 generalmente sigue el corredor I-30 entre Dallas y Fort Worth con una parada propuesta en Arlington. Las ubicaciones de las estaciones incluyen la estación de tren de alta velocidad propuesta en el centro de Dallas para el Proyecto de alta velocidad de Dallas a Houston, el distrito de entretenimiento de Arlington y la estación central de Fort Worth.

In Phase 1, the project team used a 3-level screening process to narrow down the initial vast number of possible options to a select few. As the project team moved into Phase 2, we further evaluated alignment options along I-30, narrowing them down to a single alternative to be reviewed in the NEPA analysis and documentation process. The eastern section of I-30 has been reconstructed by the Texas Dept. of Transportation, while the western section of I-30 in Tarrant County will be reconstructed in upcoming years. TxDOT is currently studying options for this project, and construction of the DFW High-Speed Rail can be integrated in this design. The provided exhibits accompanying this presentation lay out this single proposed alignment in more detail.

En la Fase 1, el equipo del Proyecto utilizó un proceso de selección de tres niveles para reducir la gran cantidad inicial de opciones posibles a unas pocas seleccionadas. A medida que el equipo del proyecto pasó a la Fase 2, evaluamos más a fondo las opciones de alineación a lo largo de la I-30, reduciéndolas a una única alternativa para ser revisada en el proceso de documentación y análisis de NEPA. La sección este de la I-30 ha sido reconstruida por el Departamento de Transporte de Texas, mientras que la sección occidental de la I-30 en el condado de Tarrant será reconstruida en los próximos años. Actualmente, TxDOT está estudiando opciones para este proyecto, y la construcción del Tren de Alta Velocidad DFW se puede integrar en este diseño. Las exhibiciones proporcionadas que acompañan a esta presentación describen con más detalle esta única alineación propuesta.

The final recommended mode of transportation at the conclusion of Phase 1 was high-speed rail, which is the only mode that was carried forward into Phase 2.

El último modo de transporte recomendado al concluir la Fase 1 fue el tren de alta velocidad, que es el único modo que se traslado a la Fase 2.

For more information on the screening analysis and other activities completed in Phase 1, please review the Phase 1 Alternatives Analysis Final Report found under the Project Information tab on the project's website.

Para obtener más información sobre el análisis de detección y otras actividades completadas en la Fase

1, revise el informe final de análisis de alternativas de la Fase 1 que se encuentra en la página de la información del proyecto en el sitio web del proyecto.

Slide 14

The benefits of bringing high-speed rail to Texas include providing a one-seat ride from Fort Worth to Houston with stops in Arlington, Dallas, and Bryan-College Station. High-speed rail reduces carbon output as opposed to other transportation methods, including conventional rail, and is less susceptible to inclement weather when compared to traveling by car or plane, causing fewer travel delays. Grade separations between railways and roadways also make high-speed rail one of the safest methods of travel. This will also allow for more reliable travel times.

Los beneficios de traer el tren de alta velocidad a Texas incluyen proporcionar un viaje de un solo asiento desde Fort Worth a Houston con paradas en Arlington, Dallas y Bryan-College Station. El tren de alta velocidad reduce la producción de carbono a diferencia de otros métodos de transporte, incluido el ferrocarril convencional, y es menos susceptible a las inclemencias del tiempo en comparación con viajar en carro o avión, lo que provoca menos retrasos en los viajes. Las separaciones a nivel entre ferrocarriles y carreteras también hacen que el tren de alta velocidad sea uno de los métodos de viaje más seguros. También esto permitirá tiempos de viaje más confiables.

Slide 15

(Phase 2: Engineering and Environmental, leave up for a moment, then go to next slide)

Slide 16

When we began Phase 2 of the study, we focused on refining and finalizing the alignment. We have continued to coordinate with the Federal Railroad Administration, Federal Transit Administration, Texas Department of Transportation, local governments, agencies, and major stakeholders to make sure that all voices continue to be heard. We are now ready to enter the NEPA process. This will include preliminary engineering, environmental analysis and documentation, development of financial and project management plans, and ongoing public, stakeholder and agency engagement.

Cuando comenzamos la Fase 2 del estudio, nos concentramos en refinar y finalizar la alineación. Hemos seguido coordinando con la Administración Federal de Ferrocarriles, la Administración Federal de Transito, el Departamento de Transporte de Texas, los gobiernos locales, las agencias y las principales partes interesadas para asegurarnos de que todas las voces sigan siendo escuchadas. Ahora estamos listos para ingresar al proceso NEPA. Esto incluirá ingeniería preliminar, análisis y documentación ambiental, Desarrollo de planes financieros y de gestión de proyectos, y participación continua del público, las partes interesadas y las agencias.

Slide 17

During the NEPA process, effects on neighborhoods and community assets (like parks and schools), air quality, noise, ecosystems, water, cultural resources, economics, and the transportation network are all considered. NEPA requires federal agencies to consider appropriate mitigation measures during the NEPA process. This includes avoiding, minimizing, rectifying, reducing over time, and compensating for adverse impacts. For example, a noise analysis will be conducted as part of the environmental impacts analysis. If a noise impact is identified, the project team will look for opportunities to avoid or minimize that impact. If avoidance and minimization is not possible, then mitigation would occur, possibly in the form of a noise wall. A big part of this process also involves listening to stakeholders like you and getting your feedback.

Durante el proceso NEPA, se consideran los efectos en los vecindarios y los activos comunitarios (como parques y escuelas), la calidad del aire, el ruido, los ecosistemas, el agua, los recursos culturales, la economía y la red de transporte. NEPA requiere que las agencias federales consideren medidas de mitigación apropiadas durante el proceso de NEPA. Esto incluye evitar, minimizar, rectificar, reducir en el tiempo y compensar los impactos adversos. Por ejemplo, se realizará un análisis de ruido como parte del análisis de impactos ambientales. Si se identifica un impacto acústico, el equipo del proyecto buscara oportunidades para evitar o minimizar ese impacto. Si no es posible evitarlo o minimizarlo, entonces se produciría una mitigación, posiblemente en forma de un muro contra el ruido. Una gran parte de este proceso también implica escuchar a partes interesadas como usted y obtener sus comentarios.

Slide 18

(Next Steps: leave up for a moment, then go to next slide)

Slide 19

If the environmental document and design in Phase 2 is finalized, the project would take a major step closer to becoming a reality. NCTCOG is taking a leadership role in advancing a high-speed rail corridor through the planning process between Dallas and Fort Worth for future public-private interest and investment. There is currently no set timeline for next steps following environmental clearance, but the next phase in advancing this corridor includes identifying an implementing agency and funding for the project to proceed to final design and construction. Preliminary engineering and the ensuing environmental process will help identify any additional right-of-way needs. Right-of-way acquisition is not a part of this current study.

Si se finaliza el documento ambiental y el diseño de la Fase 2, el proyecto daría un paso importante para convertirse en realidad. NCTCOG está asumiendo un papel de liderazgo en el avance de un corredor ferroviario de alta velocidad a través del proceso de planificación entre Dallas y Fort Worth para futuras inversiones y el interés público y privados. Actualmente no existe un cronograma establecido para los próximos pasos luego de la autorización ambiental, pero la siguiente fase para avanzar en este corredor incluye identificar una agencia implementadora y financiamiento para que el proyecto avance hasta el diseño y la construcción finales. La ingeniería preliminar y el consiguiente proceso ambiental ayudarán a identificar cualquier necesidad adicional de derecho de vía. La adquisición del derecho de vía no es parte de este estudio actual.

THE FUTURE OF HIGH-SPEED RAIL IN DFW

What Is High-Speed Rail?

A Bullet Train Saves Time

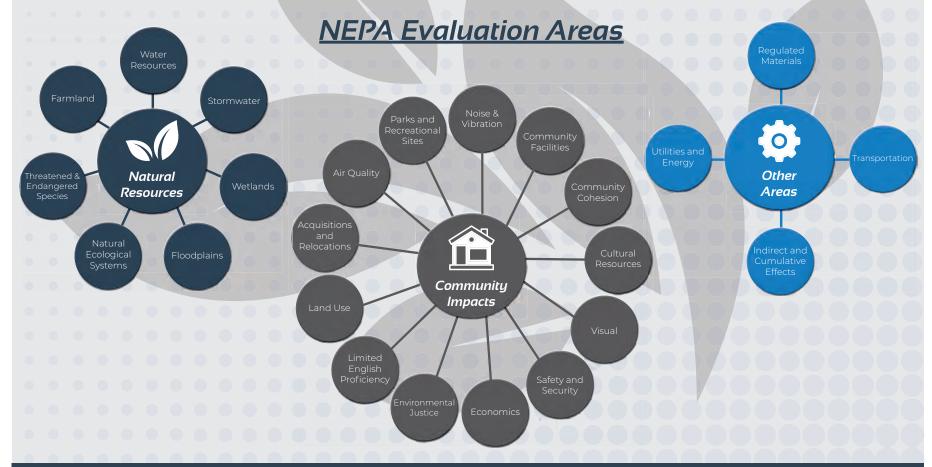

HIGH-SPEED RAIL TECHNOLOGY CAN REACH A MAXIMUM SPEED OF AROUND 250 MPH. FOR THIS ALIGNMENT, THE TRAIN COULD HAVE A TOP SPEED OF OVER 180 MPH.

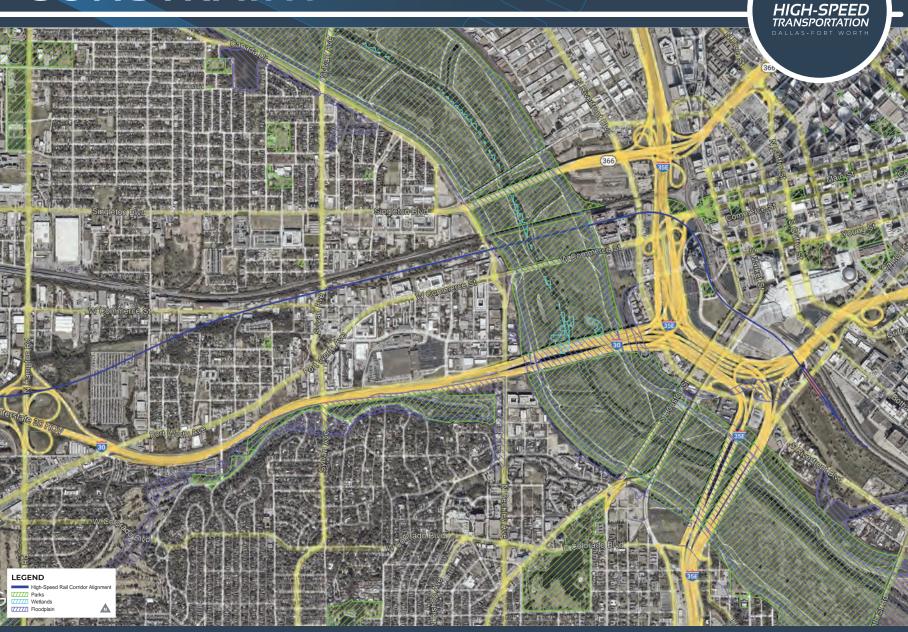

Environmental Studies Analysis and Documentation

The National Environmental Policy Act (NEPA) requires governmental agencies to assess how projects might affect the community and the natural environment.

ENVIRONMENTAL CONSTRAINT

The Sound Level of a High-Speed Train

High-speed trains operate at a generally quieter levels than conventional passenger and freight rail services due to three major factors.

Duration of Noise Disturbance

High-Speed Train

Freight Train

TRAIN LENGTH: 1.300 FT. SPEED: 220 MPH

TRAIN LENGTH: 1-MILE SPEED: 50 MPH

*based on typical train-length and speed capabilities.

1. TRAIN SPEED

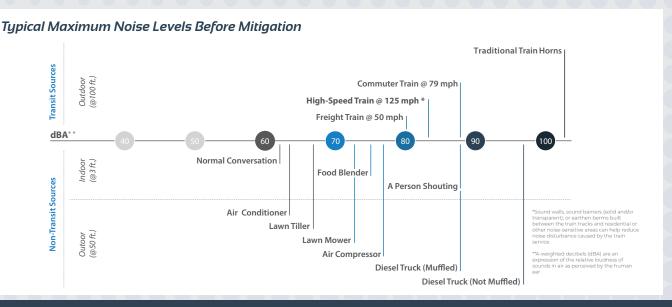

The duration of noise is brief for high-speed trains when compared to traditional train systems which take longer to pass.

2. ELECTRIC TRAINS

High-speed trains are powered by an electric propulsion system which, when compared to the more common diesel train engines, generate significantly less noise.

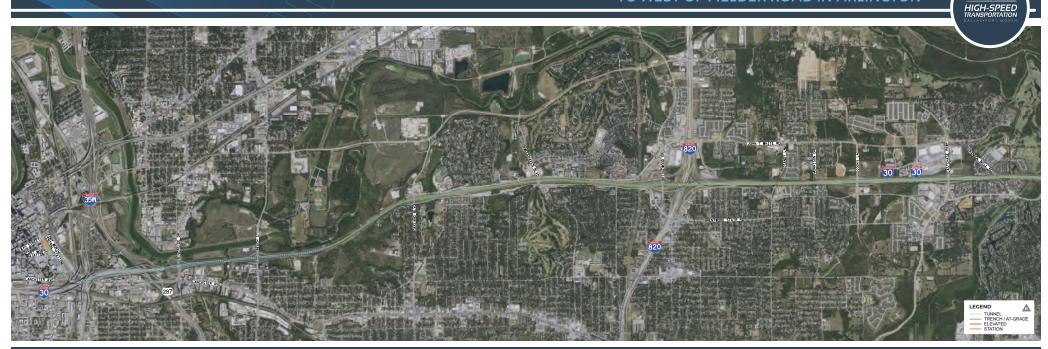

3. AUDITORY WARNING SYSTEMS

Portions of high-speed train systems that operate on grade-separated track will not require sounding bells and warning horns that are necessary for traditional railroad crossings.

EL FUTURO DEL TREN DE ALTA VELOCIDAD EN DFW

¿Qué es el tren de alta velocidad?

Un tren bala ahorra tiempo.

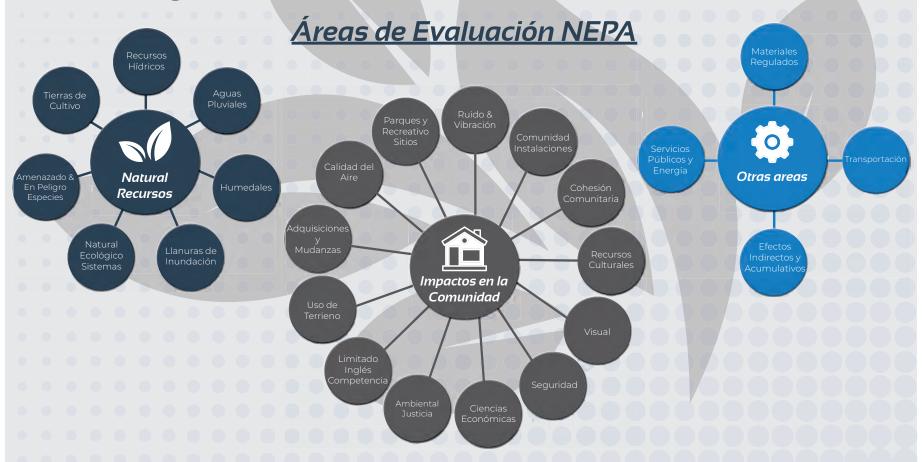

LA TECNOLOGÍA FERROVIARIA DE ALTA VELOCIDAD PUEDE ALCANZAR UNA VELOCIDAD MÁXIMA DE ALREDEDOR DE 250 MPH. PARA ESTA ALINEACIÓN, EL TREN PODRÍA TENER UNA VELOCIDAD MÁXIMA DE MÁS DE 180 MPH.

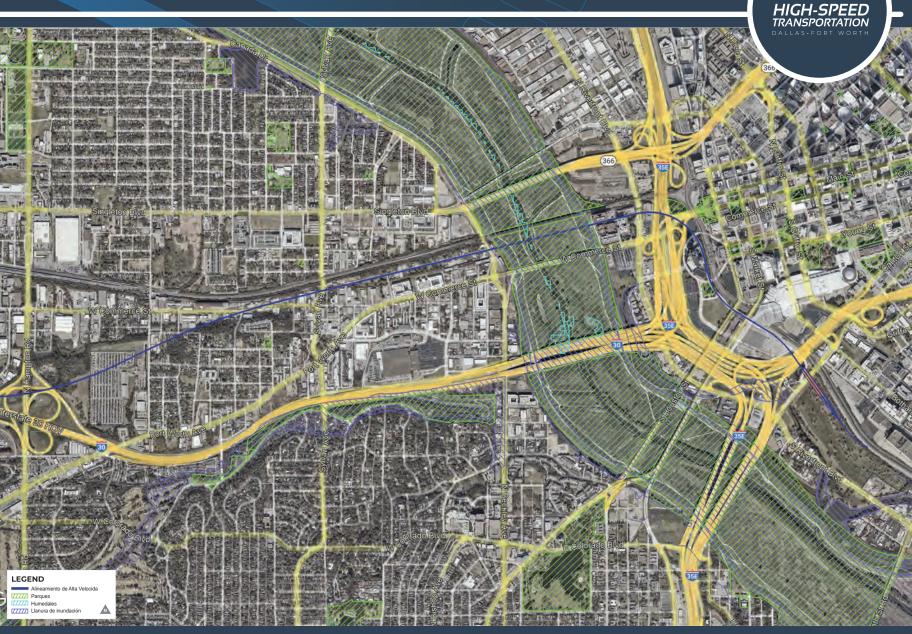

Análisis y Documentación de Estudios Ambientales

La Ley de Política Ambiental Nacional (NEPA) requiere agencias gubernamentales para evaluar cómo los proyectos podrían afectar la comunidad y el entorno natural.

Limites Ambientales

El nivel de sonido de un tren de alta velocidad

Los trenes de alta velocidad operan generalmente a niveles de ruido más bajos que los servicios convencionales de pasajeros y carga debido a tres factores principales.

Duración de la Perturbación por Ruido

Velocidad Tren de Carga

LONGITUD DEL TREN: 1,300 PIES LONGITUD DEL TREN: 1 MILLA VELOCIDAD: 220 MPH (MILLAS POR HORA)

VELOCIDAD: 50 MPH (MILLAS POR HORA)

*basado en la longitud y velocidad típicas de los trenes.

1. VELOCIDAD DEL TREN

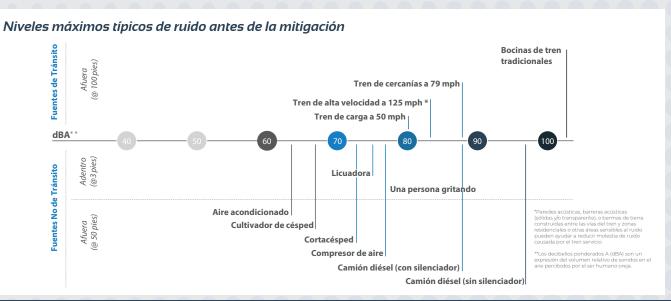

La duración del ruido es breve para los trenes de alta velocidad en comparación con los sistemas de tren tradicionales, que tardan más en pasar

2. TRENES ELÉCTRICOS

Los trenes de alta velocidad son propulsados por un sistema de propulsión eléctrica que, en comparación con los motores diésel más comunes en los trenes, genera significativamente menos ruido.

3. SISTEMAS DE ADVERTENCIA AUDITIVA

Las partes de los sistemas de tren de alta velocidad que operan en vías separadas al nivel del suelo no requerirán campanas y bocinas de advertencia que son necesarias en los cruces ferroviarios tradicionales

Secciónes Típica Potenciales

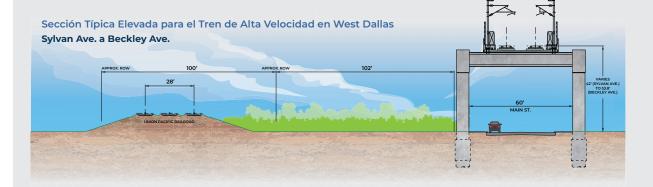

Sección Típica En Trinchera para el Tren de Alta Velocidad en la I-30 Riverside Dr. a Cooper St.

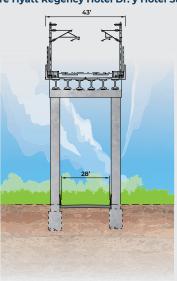

Sección Típica Elevada para el Tren de Alta Velocidad en la I-30 MacArthur Blvd. a Cockrell Hill Rd.

Sección Típica de la Alternativa de Dos Columnas para el Tren de Alta Velocidad en el Centro de Dallas

Sobre Hyatt Regency Hotel Dr. y Hotel St.

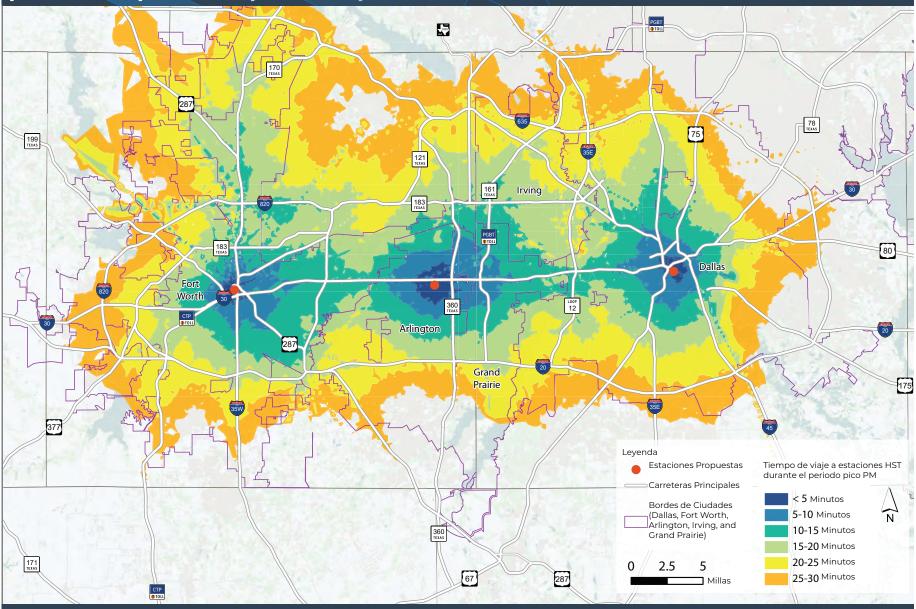

Desde Riverside Drive hasta Cooper Street, TXDOT está llevando a cabo un estudio continuo para determinar las necesidades de infraestructura para la presencia de carriles administrados, el número de carriles principales y la presencia de vías de servicio. Se producen secciones típicas conceptuales de tren de alta velocidad para ilustrar la integración de diferentes modos de transporte, aprovechando de manera eficiente el derecho de vía.

OPORTUNIDAD DE DESARROLLO ECONÓMICO EN ÁREA DE ESTACIÓN

HIGH-SPEED TRANSPORTATION DALLAS-FORT WORTH

Las estaciones de alta velocidad muchas veces son más grandes que las estaciones de tren de cercanías o de tranvía ligero.

- Impacto de gran desarrollo económico en áreas residenciales
- Desarrollos de alta densidad en las áreas circundantes a las estaciones
- Funcionan como enormes centros multimodales para regiones enteras.

Comment No.	Date	Stakeholder	Zip Code	Topic	Source	Comment	Response
1	08/17/2023	Reed Bilz	76132	Right of Way	Received via PIMA	Does the route go past downtown Fort Worth?	Good morning, Mr. Bilz, Thank you for contacting the NCTCOG Transportation Department regarding the Dallas-Fort Worth High-Speed Transportation Connections Study. The current project does not extend beyond downtown Fort Worth. However, high-speed passenger rail service within North Central Texas is not intended to be a stand-alone service and would be a component of a larger statewide and potential national network. We appreciate your feedback. Please feel free to contact us with any further comments or questions. Thank you, Taylor Benjamin
2	08/23/2023	Paul McManus	76226	Other	Received via PIMA	Hello, I'm a strong supporter of the proposed I-30 high-speed rail corridor between Dallas and Fort Worth, but due to my work schedule and also that I live in Lantana in Denton County, I'm unable to attend any of the upcoming open houses that will cover information about this rail corridor. Will information or the presentation given at these open houses be available online or could be e-mailed to me? Thanks so much! Paul McManus 1235 Claire St. Lantana, TX 76226 mcmanus.family.3@gmail.com	Good morning, Mr. McManus, Thank you for contacting the NCTCOG Transportation Department regarding the Dallas-Fort Worth High-Speed Transportation Connections Study. 3	08/18/2023	Christopher Long	75495	Economic Development, Other	Received via PIMA	Has it been discussed about the possibility of bringing high speed transportation to the rapid growing areas such as Frisco with the PGA and Universal projects, Celina with massive infrastructure underway and as far as Sherman where it is being named silicon prairie from McKinney to Sherman along I-75. Also, what is the plan to change public opinion about high speed mass transportation only being for low income? I travel to places like Dubai and currently in Rome Italy and they have high speed transportation all walks of life use and enjoy on a daily basis.	Good morning, Mr. Long, Thank you for contacting the NCTCOG Transportation Department regarding the Dallas-Fort Worth High-Speed Transportation Connections Study. High-speed transportation in the form of High-Speed Rail is better suited for long-distance, intercity type movements. Within the North Central Texas region, including the fast growing areas of Frisco, McKinney, Celina, and Prosper, other forms of rail service such as regional rail like the TEXRail Line from Fort Worth to the DFW Airport or the Silver Line from Plano to the DFW Airport currently under construction would be more appropriate service. With the proposed high-speed rail line supporting intercity movements, the existing and proposed regional rail and light rail system will provide connections to these regional demographic centers. Mobility 2045 Update (the region's long-range transportation plan) includes recommendations for these passenger rail services to better connect the region and provide reliable, convenient transit service options. In 2021, NCTCOG completed a feasibility study to evaluate a regional passenger rail line using the existing Frisco/Celina railroad corridor. This report is available on-line at: https://nctcog.org/getmedia/6d9a4734-e5a7-446b-b3d5-d3e1856c09e0/l2F-Rail-Corridor-Report-09302021.pdf . We appreciate your feedback. Please feel free to contact us with any further comments or questions. Thank you,
4	08/20/2023	Zak Sakoglu	75287	Environmental, Other	Received via PIMA	I fully support the idea. It should incorporate planes to be integrated into a larger plan which includes the future Dallas-Houston and Texas Triangle HS train network, with stations in major urban centers and with connections to local public transportation. Biking and walking trail connections, with minimal impact to environment, commuter parking areas with solar-panel-topped shades, EV chargers, and overall sustainability, should also be in the plans.	Good morning, Mr. Sakoglu, Thank you for contacting the NCTCOG Transportation Department regarding the Dallas-Fort Worth High-Speed Transportation Connections Study. 6	8/30/2023	Michael Coleman	76006	Economic Development, Environmental, and Traffic	Received via PIMA	I would like to express my complete support for this project. This seems like it would significantly decrease highway traffic, and increase metroplex travel availability and safety. I have no concerns about this project. Economic activity would increase, and the environmental impact of taking cars off the road would much outweigh any construction impacts from this rail line. I would use this line frequently.	Thank you for your interest and comments on the Dallas-Fort Worth High-Speed Transportation Connections Study. NCTCOG appreciates your feedback and will take your comments into consideration.

8	8/30/2023	Bailee Allen	76011	Other	Response collected at meeting.	This open house was very informative and well organized. Thank you for all of the hard work in laying out the groundwork to move DFW towards more sustainable solutions to its growth. Excited to see where this project goes – wishing the best for a smooth NEPA process and future funding to get this project going! I'm curious as to the public transit available for these stations, especially in the Arlington area for the proposed location. Are the cities willing to operate and maintain park & rides, shuttle systems? Or will certain stations have parking garages/enough capacity? Love this idea of high speed rail – just interested in how the general public will have access to it.	Thank you for your interest and comments on the Dallas-Fort Worth High-Speed Transportation Connections Study. Two of the three proposed high-speed rail stations (Fort Worth and Dallas) would be located close to and integrated with the main transit hubs in each downtown area. In Fort Worth, the existing Fort Worth Central Station would be across the street from a proposed underground high-speed rail station. In Dallas, the Dallas-Fort Worth high-speed rail project would share a station with the proposed Dallas to Houston high-speed rail station location near Cadiz Street and Riverfront Boulevard (just southeast of the 1-30/I-35E interchange). Planning is underway to ensure seamless connectivity to the existing transit hub at Dallas Union Station as well as the proposed convention center improvements. The proposed Arlington station would be located in the city's entertainment district and would need multimodal access to the attractions in the entertainment district, the community beyond, as well as DFW International Airport. Mobility 2045 Update, the region's long-range transportation plan developed by the North Central Texas Council of Governments, recommends a dedicated public transportation connection to/from DFW International Airport, with a stop at the Trinity Railway Express Centerport station, through the Arlington entertainment district to downtown Arlington/University of Texas at Arlington. While a mode has not been selected for this corridor (it could be an Automated Transportation System), this planned connection could serve the proposed Arlington high-speed rail station, getting people where they need to go. The project team and NCTCOG will continue to have conversations with the City of Arlington on planning for multimodal access to the proposed station. With a proposed station location has been identified for review and analysis through the NEPA (National Environmental Policy Act) process, station access planning can continue as a part of this project and in follow on efforts.

9	8/30/2023	J. Edward Gyurkovic	76002 T	Alignments, Economic Development and Environmental	Response collected at meeting.	Vision 34 CorridorSmart City Texas. The Solution to Interegional Mobility has been found in the past by Smart City Texas. July 2nd 1902 – Dec. 24th 1934 the Northern Texas Traction Company Interurban Mass Transit System that transported 20 million passengers in 33 years between Downtown Dallas & Denton. The Right of Way remains – Lancaster Division Jefferson, Ft Worth via Denton Arterial. The mobility solutions for the Metroplex and South Dallas, Southwest Ft Worth and the Entertainment District of Arlington Lie in the Past and in the Northern Texas Traction Interurban Mass Transit System. A Broader Question is why my Invention the Vision 34 Corridor cannot get a Study going. For the Record. The V34 Corridor is the first Complete Street smart Highway System incorporating AV/EV & other tech as well as an Elevated high Capacity Transit Line connecting Downtown Dallas & Downtown Ft Worth via Downtown Arlington and the entertainment District. This invention mirrors that of the Northern Texas Traction Interurban Line. Today the V34 will Interconnect 6 Professional Sports Franchises, 9 Major University Mobility Hubs including Maverick Central Station, A&M, TCU, DBU, Mountain Creek, Wesleyan, TCCC, etc., 3 New Convention Centers, while constructed in existing ROW rebuilding an existing roadway in Supermajority minority communities which include South Dallas Oak Cliff/Southeast Ft Worth Lancaster Division Jefferson (Redline extension train) TOD along the Rate – Hensley Field/GP. Gateway/Entertainment District – all the way into A&M @ 3 Billion in Downtown Ft Worth. Thank You!	Thank you for your comments on the Dallas-Fort Worth High-Speed Transportation Connections Study. The Interurban Mass Transit system referenced in your comment served two functions: it served as a regional transit connection between the downtowns of Fort Worth, Arlington, Grand Prairie, and Dallas (as well as other communities like Handley and Oak Cliff) and it served as part of an intercity network of electrified railways that connected most cities in North Texas, including Sherman and Waco. The Dallas-Fort Worth High-Speed Transportation Connections Study intends to be a link in a statewide intercity network, connecting the Dallas-Fort Worth region with other high-speed transportation corridors around the state (e.g., Dallas to Houston high-speed rail corridor) to create a seamless one-seat ride system. Given the speeds required to reduce travel time in the Dallas-Fort Worth corridor to compete with automobile travel for this one-seat ride intercity system, only one station between Dallas and Fort Worth is feasible. This project is intended to move the public over long distances at higher speeds than current regional transit systems can offer, and it is intended to complement existing and future transit systems within the region. The region's long-range transportation plan, Mobility 2045 Update, does include high-capacity transit recommendations along East Lancaster to better serve the local and regional mass transportation movements. While this does not extend past Fort Worth city limits, it does serve the needs of the community in Fort Worth along the old Interurban line. Additionally, Arlington and Grand Prairie are not currently a part of a transit authority that would need to be in place prior to any fixed route mass transit system could be implemented in those cities.
10	8/30/2023	Tricia Lyons	76002	Traffic and Other	Response collected at meeting.	I have been on the high speed train when travelling longer distances in China. It was definitely great to get to our destination faster. The ride was smooth and long enough to take in the scenery. I grew up in the Northeast outside of NYC. The train station was 2 blocks from my home. It was a great way to travel to the city for work or for pleasure. Rail definitely makes sense for this area, but w/ the shorter distances does it need to be high speed rail? Any initial idea of the cost of high speed rail compared to extending light rail or resurrecting the Interurban that ran 1902–1934. While it would not be as fast it would still eliminate traffic congestion, reconnect communities, improve mobility, offer other modes of transportation in the DFW area.	Thank you for your interest and comments on the Dallas-Fort Worth High-Speed Transportation Connections Study. High-speed passenger rail service within North Central Texas is not intended to be a stand-alone service and would be a component of a larger statewide and potential national network of high-speed rail. The Trinity Railway Express (TRE) service and other high-capacity transit recommendations from the region's long-range transportation plan, Mobility 2045 Update, are intended to serve regional movements with more stations/stops in the communities. These regional services and this high-speed rail project (a segment of a statewide high-speed system) are intended to complement each other. Per mile, the cost of high-speed rail is slightly higher than light rail.
11	8/30/2023	Chris Sunderman	76063	Other	Response collected at meeting.	A 23 minute alternative to the TRE will be a hard sale to DFW/Texas population. I have already heard it called a boondoggle. Don't get me wrong, I support it and the Texas Central Railway, but I feel there a lot of political opposition to it. I'm still a bit annoyed that Arlington station is the proposed station, and Arlington fails to add any DART RAIL, or TRE, or a major public transportation network, like Dallas & other communities do have.	Thank you for your interest and comments on the Dallas-Fort Worth High-Speed Transportation Connections Study. NCTCOG appreciates your feedback and will take your comments into consideration. The proposed high-speed rail station in Arlington would only be constructed if the city joins or implements transit service.

12	8/30/2023	Esteban Arizpe	76011	Alignments, Economic Development and Traffic	Response collected at meeting.	I think this idea is great! As a young professional and someone new to the DFW Metroplex, I think this transportation would allow me to explore the area without the hassle of traffic or wasted time. I believe the convenience of this rail system would positively impact the entirety of the DFW metroplex. The concerns I have are related to future phases. The questions I have are: How will I explore the area after getting off the rail? How many rails will be running at the same time? How much time would I spend at the station if I miss the rail? Will the rail run 24/7?	Thank you for your interest and comments on the Dallas-Fort Worth High-Speed Transportation Connections Study. 							The frequency of service will be determined by operational requirements of the system and passenger travel demand patterns. The design concept includes double tracks for dedicated eastbound and westbound travel, as well as express tracks at the Arlington station allowing trains to pass through the platforms without stopping. These features create operational flexibility accommodating a wide range of possible timeframes between trains. Trains could operate late at night or on weekends, but likely not as frequently depending on demand for service. Additionally, trains typically do not run 24/7 to allow for maintenance of the guideway and vehicles.
13	8/30/2023	Vickie Dixon	76012	Environmental	Response collected at meeting.	This is a well researched study identifying a much needed transportation option for our region. 14	8/30/2023	Chris Carathers	76052	Economic Development and Traffic	Comment collected at meeting.	With the continued population boom in Texas and the projected increase in time to drive between Dallas and Ft. Worth, it only makes sense that we need to be doing everything we can to make this happen. It needs to have its stations where you can easily transfer to other rail systems, and the Arlington Station needs to be right in the middle of the stadiums and Six Flags Over Texas. If we can connect all of these things, it would be huge.	Thank you for your interest and comments on the Dallas-Fort Worth High-Speed Transportation Connections Study. 15	8/30/2023	William Oglesby	76016	Alignments	Collected through PIMA	I enjoyed seeing the displays and what has been completed. I went to the Open House in 2021 and also enjoyed that update. I especially liked seeing the alignments and the different grades of track. I wasn't aware of the Underground and above grade sections. I believe the next Open House will be even more informative. I hope to see a more definite Time of Completion. I'd like to know more about how people are thinking after coming to these Open Houses. I'd like to know what we can do to make this come to fruition. I always talk it up with people I see and know. I'm going to set up a event with my Jewish War Veterans group. That is something I was made aware of while I was talking to the NTCOG representatives. I really talked their ears off but I learned a lot! Looking forward to the next Open House. Thanks for the update. No. 16	Date 8/31/2023	Stakeholder Marcus Wood	75214 75214	Topic Alignments and Right of Way	Source Collected through Email	What is the basis for the 102 feet "open" space setback beyond the UPRR right-of-way for locating the HSR support structure? Is that a Federal law, FRA regulation, ARA Class 1 or NTSB recommendation, UPRR consultant statement, or? If the HSR structure were instead abutting the ROW would not the Project cost be significantly lower overall, perhaps $100s Millions or even $1 Billion less and add significantly to the tax rolls? That distance times 102 feet times market value per square foot plus current improvements would itself be a significant taxable value and tax revenue loss. Should not this be part of the corridor EA? I don't see similar setbacks from railroad ROW at Convention Center and along UPRR throughout Dallas and Tarrant Counties. Would new developments on the private properties on the north side of UPRR at say Riverfront Boulevard be required to provide setback by law? Marcus Wood	Mr. Wood, Thank you for your interest in the Dallas-Fort Worth High-Speed Transportation Connections Study. The requirement of the 102-foot setback is based on a Union Pacific Railroad document related to high-speed access principles. The reason cited is that "Almost all freight train derailments can be contained within 100 feet of the track centerline and high-speed passenger train derailments have a greater dispersion distance to compensate for." Through west Dallas, the proposed high-speed rail line would be elevated and generally align with Main Street, an existing publicly owned right-of-way. Shifting the alignment to be adjacent to the Union Pacific would not lower costs but likely would increase construction costs because crash walls would be required at each column as well as right-of- way acquisition. North of the convention center, the area has numerous constraints so the 102-foot offset cannot be attained therefore crash walls will be required to protect the columns of the high-speed rail structure. As far as offsets to developments on the north side of the railroad, suggest you contact the City of Dallas for any development requirements. Please let me know if you have any further questions. Thank you, Brendon Wheeler, PE, CFM

I am excited and hopeful that this will come to fruition in a timely fashion, which still cares for wildlife and waterways. The Texas summers cause cracks in everything. During rain, overdevelopment of pastures into housing seems to cause, bring on, effect water runoff and neighbors flood. It is an excellent thing that this project proposes following the roadways, in the space between right of ways. The tunnel(s) and elevated portions seem sensible and sensitive to the existing city cultures and development. I do not have a question. We are excited about this. Well done! We hope to follow the progress through the phases. Thank you.	Thank you for your interest and comments on the Dallas-Fort Worth High-Speed Transportation Connections Study. Thanks for being about an intermodal, 21st Century transpo network for our region. I do think that more attentional emphasis should be placed on how a project like this can enhance the regional "urban fabric" + the economic benefits however, to truly enhance the regional "fabric," there needs to be good connections – shuttles to Arl. destinations, good integration w/ VIA, shuttles/buses to TRE & TexRail stations – basically, a filling of the Mid-Cities transit hole. Good pedestrian & bicycle access, too!! This whole kit'n'kab will be less effective w/o a serious intermodalization between FW & Dallas. 22	9/2/2023	Gary Kuenzle	75069	Alignment, Environmental, and Right of Way	Collected on PIMA	Excellent but also disappointing. When I first read about these info meetings, they led me to believe that they would focus on the Dallas/Houston HSR project, which had recently risen from the grave thanks to Amtrak's entry into the fray. So I was disappointed when I found that, when I arrived for the 8/31 meeting, it was about the Dallas/Ft Worth HSR project, which I knew nothing about. So, after checking out the exhibits and chatting with the reps, I came away with a whole new appreciation for the project and was glad to see that it had progressed to Phase 2. I was glad to see that the right of way had been determined and the Shinkansen-style trains were the chosen train sets to operate at 185 mph. Wish the estimated completion date was sooner than "sometime in the mid '30s", according to the rep. Lastly, I was VERY glad to see the project is looking to tie in with the Dallas/Houston project, with the possibility of not having to change trains in Dallas. So, keep the meetings coming but please identify them more clearly that they do not pertain to the Texas Central project. 23	9/5/2023	Karl Ziebarth	75205	Alignments	Collected at Meeting	1) Who is going to pay for it? 2) Why are you using elevated structure for Dallas terminal access? Very costly. 3) Why build or plan for Ft. Worth¬–Dallas hispeed when Texas Central is (to say the least) on hold	Thank you for your interest and comments on the Dallas-Fort Worth High-Speed Transportation Connections Study. 1. At this time, financing of the projects has not been determined; however, a public-private partnership is anticipated. 2. The project is proposed to be elevated at the Dallas terminal to match the station platform of the Dallas high-speed rail station that will be constructed as part of the Dallas to Houston High-speed rail project. This platform is over 70 feet above the ground. 3. The Dallas-Fort Worth high-speed project is intended to be a segment of an intercity high-speed rail system within the State. While connecting to the Dallas to Houston project would be ideal, other opportunities, such as connectivity with a Fort Worth to South Texas high-speed system that has been studied previously, allow this project to be integrated into a future statewide high-speed system.

What do I need to do to protect my property?	Thank you for your interest and comments on the Dallas-Fort Worth High-Speed Transportation Connections Study. As proposed, the project is located predominantly within existing transportation right-of-way, within the I-30 corridor, substantially reducing the need for additional to purchase right-of-way for the corridor. During Phase 2, the study will identify specific properties that would need to be acquired. However, acquiring right-of-way is not a part of this phase of the study. Following completion of Phase 2, future steps in advancing the project (including identifying an implementing agency and securing project funding) will be required. We suggest you provide continue to provide comments and specifically identify the location of the property to the project team.

29	9/7/2023	Marc Ishmael	75206	Economic Development and Traffic	Collected through PIMA	I'm glad to see NCTCOG working to take advantage of the Amtrak/TX Central Houston to Dallas HSR line by planning the proposed Dallas to Ft Worth extension. These projects will add resilience and choice to our regional and statewide transportation systems, and help our existing and planned investments in airport and highway expansions go farther to accommodate expected growth. For too long passenger rail has been largely ignored, and as a result underfunded, as a transportation solution in Texas. This project is a great move in the right direction. The inevitable private investment that the project will leverage in the form of transit-oriented developments is also substantial, especially so if the stations can be efficiently integrated with local transit. There's great economic development potential not just at the HSR stations, but as well as near DART and Trinity Metro stations whose ridership catchment areas will benefit from the distance-compressing effect a high-speed rail connection provides to its destinations. Another benefit I'm excited to see realized is each HSR passenger being one less person crowding our busy highways. 30	9/7/2023	Misty Spracklen	75212	Alignments, Traffic, and Environmental	Collected through PIMA	This makes me very nervous for the West Dallas neighborhoods, especially the new developments in the Soho housing community. This community is very close to the Union Pacific line. These homes cost in the range of half a million to a quarter of a million dollars. There is a new lagoon that is to be built. How will this affect that area. Will eminent domain be in our future?	Thank you for your interest and comments on the Dallas-Fort Worth High-Speed Transportation Connections Study. During Phase 2, a federal environmental document will be prepared to assess the impacts and effects of the project on the community, and this will include identifying properties that would need to be acquired. However, acquiring right-of-way is not a part of this phase of the study. Following completion of Phase 2, future steps in advancing the project (including identifying an implementing agency and securing project funding) will be required. Any property acquisition required for the proposed improvements would be conducted in accordance with applicable federal and state regulations such as the Uniform Relocation and Real Property Acquisition Policies Act of 1970 and Fair Housing Act. Property owners would be offered fair market value. If the property owner does not agree with the offer, eminent domain could be used.

34	9/11/2023	Siva Sundaram	77386	Alignments, Environmental, and Right of Way	Collected through PIMA	1. HSR rail should be looked at a Texas perspective and NOT as a Dallas/Fort Worth perspective. While I am a strong advocate of HSR for USA, I strongly believe a 32 mile trip with a stop in between does not require HSR. A HSR in this segment technically may not achieve the max speed and even if it does, it will not last more than a few minutes. A HSR for this segment makes sense only if it is part of HSR network for entire Texas which includes DALLAS - HOUSTON – AUSTIN – SAN ANTONIO. So the council of governments should first focus on getting the Dallas – Houston HSR up and going and then add this route. It doesn't make sense if it is done in the reverse 2. For entire Texas, two types of routes were displayed. The Upside Down U and the Texas T-Bone. Texas T-Bone is the best option to go as it will reduce at least 200 miles of new rail line, saving enormously on acquisition costs, construction costs, better time lines, potential expansion into New Orleans subsequently Florida Further this is the only option that covers all 4 major metros in Texas. The Upside Down U does not cover Houston – Austin – San Antonio which is a very important market to serve. I think at this point, COG should go with the Texas T-Bone option and remove the other one	Thank you for your interest and comments on the Dallas-Fort Worth High-Speed Transportation Connections Study. The Dallas-Fort Worth area has a population of 8.2 million today and is anticipated to be home to more than 11.4 million by 2045. With this growth, implementation of high-speed transportation options in North Texas are needed. Also, the entire state is experiencing unprecedented growth and will need alternative transportation modes to connect economic hubs. The project offers a connection to other planned high-speed systems in the state, eventually connecting megaregions in the Texas Triangle and Oklahoma. The Dallas-Fort Worth high-speed project is intended to be a segment of an intercity high-speed rail system within the State. While connecting to the Dallas to Houston project would be ideal, other opportunities, such as connectivity with a Fort Worth to South Texas high-speed system that has been studied previously, allow this project to be integrated into a future statewide high-speed system.
35	9/11/2023	Stephen Tordella	75201	Alignments and Right of Way	Collected through PIMA	Any HSR between Dallas and Fort Worth needs to have a stop at AT&T Stadium and Globe life Park. Having a stop at Arlington is not sufficient. The stop needs to be AT THE STADIUM. Why is the Arlington stop not at the stadium?	Thank you for your interest and comments on the Dallas-Fort Worth High-Speed Transportation Connections Study. During Phase 1 of the study, numerous alignments and station locations were considered in the Arlington Entertainment District, including several near the stadiums. However, these alignments would have required the displacement of many businesses and/or homes and significantly increased travel time due to the degree of curvature needed to be located near the stadiums. The project team worked with the City of Arlington to determine the best location for the station to serve the community.

Concern with having more neighbors involved and making sure planning with included West Dallas. We need to move east over Cockrell Hill because that is going to be too close to my community. I am very disappointed there is not going to be a stop on Main St.	Thank you for your interest and comments on the Dallas-Fort Worth High-Speed Transportation Connections Study. As requested, the project team has reviewed moving the crossover of I-30 from west of Loop 12 to east of Loop 12 to minimize impacts to the Ledbetter neighborhood. In this area, it is possible to move the alignment from the north side of I-30 into the median of I-30 and this change has been incorporated into the design. It is not possible to move the alignment to the south side of I-30 because of the direct- connecting ramps proposed to be constructed as part of the I-30 and Loop 12 interchange improvements. High speed rail will be a great economic booster providing mobility to those without a car. It will reduce traffic on I-30 since it takes cars off the road. Less cars means less pollution. We have been waiting ages for high speed rail in the US. I hope this project succeeds and mark a turning point in US transportation. Will TRE service improve alongside this new project? I think the lane should make it easier to build train projects since they have proven to reduce traffic, pollution, and deaths unlike just one more lane hov on highways.	Thank you for your interest and comments on the Dallas-Fort Worth High-Speed Transportation Connections Study. NCTCOG appreciates your feedback and will take your comments into consideration. Improvements to TRE service such as double tracking the remainder of the rail line .are being planned with key segments being advanced to construction in the near term. This will provide additional capacity to support more frequent service when needed. Additionally, the existing TRE rail vehicles will be replaced with newer models, improving passenger experience on this important regional corridor.

51	9/19/2023	Tajj Harris		Environmental, Economic Development and Traffic	Collected through PIMA	I believe that a high-speed rail through West Dallas is deeply valuable to the City at large but I also want to make sure that my neighborhoods and I in this community also have the ability to enjoy this success. By that I mean, attention should be paid to not displacing any residents in this community. Instead, there should be much more effort put into either buying our or using eminent domain to remove the vast numbers of industrial manufacturer corporations (which would align with both the City of Dallas' Racial Equity Plan and the community-led Singleton Corridor Neighborhood Plan) South of Singleton Blvd and using that land run a rail line. Even so, special attention should be paid to how the cost of living surrounding the high speed rail station may change, and inadvertently push out the low-income residents who have called West Dallas home for generations. Moreover, there should be collaboration with DART for expanding bus routes, over even a trolley line, that facilitates residents from all across West Dallas, which is inherently a pretty vast geographic region, to reach the high-speed rail station.	Thank you for your interest and comments on the Dallas-Fort Worth High-Speed Transportation Connections Study. NCTCOG appreciates your feedback and will take your comments into consideration. The proposed alignment was developed to minimize impacts to private property. An overarching goal is the creation of a seamless transportation system in which high-speed rail connects to other transit systems to easily move people throughout the region. NCTCOG will continue to work closely with DART to ensuring existing and future local/regional transit services can easily connect to the proposed high-speed rail station in downtown Dallas.

Owners should be given new homes paid for in full along with moving expenses.	Thank you for your interest and comments on the Dallas-Fort Worth High-Speed Transportation Connections Study. Any property acquisition required for the proposed improvements would be conducted in accordance with applicable federal and state regulations such as the Uniform Relocation and Real Property Acquisition Policies Act of 1970 and Fair Housing Act. Property owners would be offered fair market value. Relocation assistance such as moving costs and certain related costs would be offered to displaced persons and businesses. During Phase 2, the study will identify properties that would need to be acquired. However, acquiring right-of-way is not a part of this phase of the study. Following completion of Phase 2, future steps in advancing the project (including identifying an implementing agency and securing project funding) will be required. 54	10/4/2023	James B. Trachier	76118	Alignments, Economic Development and Traffic	Collected through PIMA	I'm commenting to say I fully support a Dallas-Fort Worth high speed rail corridor, and I would like to see this project incorporate a stop in Arlington in the entertainment district near Globe Life Field and AT&T Stadium. I hope NCTCOG will continue to advocate and prioritize this and other rail transit projects in our region. DFW is currently one of the fastest growing metro areas in the nation and may likely surpass Los Angeles in population by the year 2050 if current population growth trends continue. Regional high speed rail, commuter rail, and other rail transit projects are absolutely vital to supporting the ongoing and future growth of the DFW/NTX region and providing adequate public transportation solutions for our area. Thank you NCTCOG for your continued hard work in bringing better public transit solutions to DFW! I have found existing rail to be helpful to make the trip between cities during high traffic periods. High speed rail would do much more and specifically would alleviate highway volumes before and after major sporting events such as Texas Rangers and Dallas Cowboys game events provided stops close to game locations were provided. The route should be non-stop without a station in Arlington. Arlington can be served by building a station that is an extension of the TRE with all funds coming from the City of Arlington. Once leaving the two CBD stations the high-speed rail train's trip should not be interrupted by a third station therefore defeating the intent of high-speed rail	Thank you for your interest and comments on the Dallas-Fort Worth High-Speed Transportation Connections Study. NCTCOG appreciates your feedback and will take your comments into consideration. The proposed Arlington station would be located in the city's entertainment district and the corridor design concept includes the operational flexibility for trains to stop at the Arlington station or to pass through this station area via express tracks. Additionally, the Arlington station would need multimodal access to the attractions in the entertainment district, the community beyond, as well as DFW International Airport. Mobility 2045 Update, the region's long-range transportation plan developed by the North Central Texas Council of Governments, recommends a dedicated public transportation connection to/from DFW International Airport, with a stop at the Trinity Railway Express Centerport station, through the Arlington entertainment district to downtown Arlington/University of Texas at Arlington. While a mode has not been selected for this corridor (it could be an Automated Transportation System), this planned connection could serve the proposed Arlington high-speed rail station, getting people where they need to go.
57	10/7/2023	Paul Mcmanus	76226	Economic Development, Environmental and Traffic	Collected through PIMA	This planned high-speed rail corridor will be absolutely wonderful in helping to reduce car traffic, road congestion, and air pollution, as well as providing a terrific transportation option, and we need this corridor as quickly as possible as DFW continues to grow rapidly! 1. Would prefer the Crossour from north side of 30 to the south side further east (Detween Westmoreland and Cockrell Hill) to avoid train ranning directly by the Ledbetter reighborhood.

2. Would have liked to see a stop in West Dallas at Main Street since we seem to be taking the brunt of the Construction and making the most concessions for this rail.
