

Legislative Update

April 11, 2025

FROM WASHINGTON, D.C.

The US House of Representatives narrowly approved a budget resolution on April 10, with a 216-214 vote, setting the stage for President Trump's proposed tax cuts and spending plans. The resolution had previously passed the Senate and now enables lawmakers to begin drafting legislation on tax reductions and spending adjustments. This legislative procedure is part of a broader effort to use the reconciliation process, allowing budget-related bills to pass with a simple majority, bypassing potential filibusters in the Senate.

The House Transportation and Infrastructure Subcommittee on Aviation met on April 8, for a hearing titled “America Builds: Airport Infrastructure, Safety, and Regulatory Environment.” Chairman Nehls emphasized recent Congressional advancements in the Federal Aviation Administration (FAA) reauthorization bill, particularly increased funding for capital projects. Witnesses from across the aviation sector praised the reauthorization bill but urged Congress to streamline FAA reforms that affect users and workers. Committee members also sought guidance on how to best support airports of all sizes—small, medium, and large—in the lead-up to the next reauthorization legislation.

The House Transportation and Infrastructure Subcommittee on Highways and Transit held a hearing on April 9, titled “America Builds: A Review of Our Nation’s Transit Policies and Programs.” Chairman Rouzer opened by underscoring the importance of supporting transit systems of all sizes across the country. Witnesses represented a broad swath of the transportation sector, including transit agency officials, labor union representatives, and public sector leaders who shared modern and innovative solutions to current transit challenges. Committee members raised questions on issues such as pre- and post-pandemic ridership trends, operator safety, funding allocation, rightsizing services, and how the upcoming surface transportation bill can improve public transit nationwide.

FROM AUSTIN

On Thursday, April 10, the Texas House passed a $337 billion two-year budget after nearly 13 hours of debate and hundreds of amendments, many of which were rejected or sidelined. The budget prioritizes education, teacher salaries, property tax relief, and border security, while leaving $40 billion in general revenue unspent due to constitutional spending limits. Several amendments were proposed on the House floor, but only 25 modifications were adopted, while the majority were either withdrawn or killed. The House also approved a $12 billion supplemental budget to fund water infrastructure, natural disasters, and higher education. The ultimate budget must still be negotiated in a conference committee and approved by both chambers before it’s sent to Governor Abbott.

The Senate Transportation Committee met on April 9 at 8 am to review and approve several bills. One bill of particular interest, SB 2129 (Johnson), which increases the fine for drivers who disregard railroad crossing gates or flaggers from the current range of $50–$200 to a new range of $100–$400 in an effort to reduce accidents, was approved by the committee. Senator Menéndez’s SB 546, which was introduced to the committee on March 26 and concerns seat belts on buses transporting children, also moved forward. A committee substitute to the bill was presented, which removes the option for 2-point seat belts and instead allows financially constrained school districts to submit a report to the Texas Education Agency (TEA) detailing current seatbelt configurations, estimated costs for compliance with 3-point belt requirements, and any potential impact on bus warranties. This substitute was approved.
