The Regional Trails and Community Shared-Use Path network does not include interagency pathways owned and maintained by the Federal Government, State Governments, Counties, the City of Dallas, and various other public entities and private organizations. The network also does not include on-street trails and bikeways that are not part of Regional Trails and Community Shared-Use Path network. The Regional Trails and Community Shared-Use Path network includes existing and planned trails and bikeways in the Dallas-Fort Worth metropolitan area as of October 2018. The Regional Trails and Community Shared-Use Path network is a part of the greater nation-wide National Bike Network, which is a system of over 35,000 miles of bike routes that connects communities across the United States and Canada.
